Lt. Oliver P. Ledford, commander of the Truckee squad of the California Highway Patrol for the last nine years and a patrol officer since Jan. 1, 1937, announced he will retire after 32 years on June 15.

Ledford will be honored by fellow officers and friends at a reception scheduled June 13 at Nevada Lodge Lake Tahoe.

The officer has applied for duty with AID in Vietnam, as passed all required examinations and is awaiting word of his acceptance.

Ledford joined the CHP Jan. 1, 1937, in Marysville and was assigned to Fresno where he

Man Killed By Train On Summit

An unidentified man, thought to be a transient, died beneath the wheels of a Southern Pacific train about five miles west of Norden near the Cascade Bridge.

The body, which was found by a railroad employee at about 6 p.m. Saturday, was taken to Quinn's Chapel in Colfax.

Placer County sheriff's deputies at Tahoe City are in the process of trying to identify the body through fingerprints sent to the FBI.

Special Meeting

A special meeting of the board of directors of Truckee-Donner Recreation and Park District will take place tonight, May 28, for the purpose of interviewing and selecting a director to replace Charles Spillner, who has left the area.

Also on the agenda is the opening of bids according to resolutions 69-10 and 69-11, change orders for boat ramp construction, and disposition of property belonging to the public utility district.

One Man's Opinion

By CARL BRIGGS

The role played by the chamber of commerce within the community is an important one and yet is often misunderstood by those whom the chamber attempts to benefit most—the rank and file local businessman and resident.

A chamber's primary function is to attract business and by doing so to help the economy, and in a resort community outside business is the name of the game. We couldn't feed off each other for long; we're too big an area with too high an assessed valuation and too small a population. The tourist dollar is a constant and necessary transfusion without which we would soon wither and perhaps expire—not to mention the possible perils of ague, dropsy and tunnel vision.

These are facts readily understood by most of our people—an uncommonly astute group—yet there are those few who would rather fight than prosper, and it eventually becomes a sort of negative crusade with them, a Quixotic pantomime in one-dimensional silhouette.

Not much time can be spent on the non-producers. There is too much to do, and they just have to be bypassed, left to their own lonely devices, and honest men will not begrudge them the benefits that will accrue along the fringe. There is too much to do and we can't wait for the stragglers.

Greater North Lake Tahoe Chamber of Commerce is commencing its annual membership drive, under the command of Ray Huston (oh, wise fox—who runs—swiftly—on—one—hind leg), and Truckee—Donner Chamber of Commerce will follow soon thereafter, asking your indulgence, your cooperation, your spirit and assistance. Both of these bodies are deserving. They do more than anyone else to promote our general welfare, but the organization is only as effective as the convictions of its members.

Don't be a straggler. Companies and individuals are welcome, and businessmen and just plain people.

Join one of your chambers of commerce—North Lake Tahoe or Truckee-Donner—and throw

Chamber Commerce Honors Man Of Year

An installation and Man of the Year award dinner for Truckee-Donner Chamber of Commerce will take place Thursday, June 5, at Donner Lake Lodge.

Carl Briggs, editor of the Sierra Sun, will succeed Carson White as president, with Jay Price of Boreal Ridge and Herb Crenshaw of KTRT assuming the posts of first and second vice president.

Hal Silva, past president of the chamber and chairman of the Man of the Year Committee, will make a presentation to the man whom the committee feels is most deserving of recognition for the greatest contribution to the Truckee-Donner community. Identification of the winner will not be disclosed until the award is made.

Special guests include Assemblyman Eugene Chapple; Len Gilbert, president of Nevada County Chamber of Commerce; John Gallegos, manager of the county chamber; Ben Damanchik, president of North Lake Tahoe Chamber of Commerce; and Betty Layton, manager of the North Shore group.

A cocktail hour is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. The public is invited and reservations are not necessary.

North Tahoe Chamber Starts Member Drive

The big annual membership drive of Greater North Lake Tahoe Chamber of Commerce is under way, with Ray Huston, committee chairman, dispatching his eager assistants to all corners of the region in search of new members.

Committee members include Gordon Reddall, Incline Village; Dr. Arthur Benson, Crystal Bay and Kings Beach; Judy Thatcher, Tahoe Vista and Carnelian Bay; Bob Bacon, Lake Forest; Bob Scott, Tahoe

City; George Brenneman, Meeks Bay to Pineland; and Long John Corbett, Alpine Meadows and Squaw Valley.

Huston's Rangers will be putting the arm on existing members to renew as well as flushing new ones out of the woods.

The membership drive will terminate June 27 with a big party at Cal-Neva Lodge, Crystal Bay, for members and guests.

SP To Cut Train

Southern Pacific Co. has announced it will try once again to discontinue its City of San Francisco passenger train effective July 17.

The City of San Francisco is the last remaining SP train on the original overland rail route. The centennial of its completion was celebrated at Promontory, Utah, May 10.

Last year SP asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to stop the train. At about the same time the Western Pacific Railroad had sought for the second time to discontinue its California Zephyr, the only other east-west train serving Sacramento.

The ICC ruled then that both trains must run at least one more year—until July 17, 1969. Last week, the California Zephyr was threatened again with extinction. One of the railroads that carry it from the bay area through Sacramento to Chicago—the Denver & Rio Grande Western—asked ICC permission to discontinue it. The Rio Grande runs the train from Salt Lake City to Denver. The WP hauls it west to Salt Lake and the Burlington carries it east of Denver.

Robert M. Jochner, SP passenger traffic manager, said the City of San Francisco carried fewer passengers than ever last year.

"As a result, we suffered our heaviest losses—more than $1.3 million," he said.

The train averaged more than 200 passengers a trip in 1966, dropping to 145 in 1967 and 110 in 1968, he claimed.

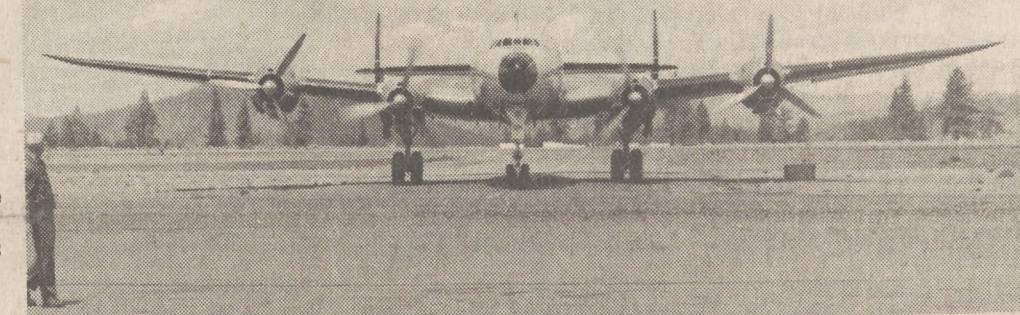

Sources at the California Pacific Utilities Commission have noted, however, by railroads to remove their trains have resulted in uncertainty by the public that trains still are rolling and, thus, have contributed to passenger losses.

Jochner said it costs SP $5,100 to run the City of San Francisco each way each day, but that tickets, dining and bar car receipts, a token amount of mail and other revenue bring in only $3,200.

No Budget Increase For County Chamber

The Nevada County Chamber of Commerce asked the board of supervisors for $62,325 for the coming year but was forced to accept a tentative budget of $37,300, the same figure as last year.

Supervisors Tuesday by a split vote, approved the tentative chamber budget at $37,300. However, they did allow an extra $500 for the Nevada County Historical Society, and another $400 for the Golden Chain Highway Association.

The supervisors' chamber was filled with persons interested in the chamber budget. Six of those present lauded the chamber and its executive manager, John Gallegos, for past promotional performances. However, two others were critical of chamber activities being geared toward alleged tourism rather than bringing industry to the county.

Fred Conway, chamber treasurer, presented the budget request.

"It is impossible to do the job like it has to be done on the $37,300 budgeted the last fiscal year," he contended. He claimed the chamber has "built in expense" from demands placed upon its finances by other agencies.

Conway pointed out the proposed budget did not include raises for the executive manager nor the chamber secretary. However, it did provide $34,000 for "promotional gifts" to other chambers within the county. It also provided for financial aid to the historical society, the Golden Chain Highway Association, The Nevada City Constitution Day Celebration, The Truckee and Grass Valley Jaycees, and the Maid of California contest.

According to Conway, last year's budget was boosted to $42,000 by donations, prizes gained at fairs, and membership fees. The membership fees contributed only $226 of the amount.

In answer to Supervisor Willy Curran's question, Conway explained the chamber has not conducted an active membership drive. He said directors feared such activity could destroy chambers at the local levels and that resentment has been expressed by businessmen who have been asked to hold memberships in two chambers. Gordon Redell, county chamber director and manager of the Truckee-Tahoe Airport district, was representing the Truckee-Donner Chamber of Commerce. He suggested that a four cents per $100 valuation from taxes be a basis for the $37,300 chamber budget. He advocated that the room tax could generate another $20,000 which could be sub-allotted to other chambers.

Julius Marks presented a petition signed by residents of Washington asking that the chamber be kept alive. He said the town has benefited by chamber activities and that people have come as a result of participation in boat shows.

"Historically our county has been geared to tourism rather than industry," was the thinking of John Hemler representing the Truckee and Donner Lake area. He urged that citizens help keep the county chamber, was representing the Colfax Highway Association, accused the chamber of showing lack of interest. He claimed boat shows do not do "what they are supposed to do" and was critical of the chamber allegedly emphasizing "nothing but tourism" saying that tourists leave "nothing but garbage in Nevada county." He contended that the chamber has failed to keep jobs for youth in mind, and has been negligent in encouraging industry to come here.

Supervisor William Thomas asked McDowell if he had gleaned his ideas from first hand information and attending chamber meetings. McDowell said he has not attended the meetings.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, SIERRA SUN:

Are you aware how completely our great country is run on the qualities of character that undergird the Boy Scout Program.

As a famous man once said, "Let's look at the record." Eighty-five per cent of student council presidents were scouts; 88 per cent of senior class presidents were scouts; 75 per cent of business managers of school publications were scouts; 65 per cent of the enrollment of the Air Force Academy were scouts; 75 per cent of cadets at Annapolis in 1959 were former Eagle Scouts; 68 per cent of cadets at West Point in 1959 were former Eagle Scouts; 75 per cent of all FBI men were scouts; and 535 members of the House of Representatives, 210 were scouts.

The Boy Scouts of America need your help. It costs the Tahoe Area Council $20 per boy per year to operate; this is in excess of dues that the boys pay.

Your contribution is needed and will be greatly appreciated.

EDITOR, SIERRA SUN:

Last week we received a crank letter mailed in Truckee, an anonymous letter, signed "Interested Parents." It contained a biblical quotation declaring the shame of men and boys who wear long hair, and an inquiry about whether we believed in the Bible.

Although we have an extensive church background, we do not regard long hair, side burns, beards, or any variation of facial or cranial hair as immoral. Furthermore, we do not regard the length or style of our son's hair to be anyone's business except our own.

We do not propose that your sons must adhere to our son's hair style by law, by school rule, by social pressure, by personal intimidation, or by anonymous letter.

We do not agree with a few in the Truckee-Tahoe community who believe that a boy who wears long hair is undoubtedly taking drugs, or that keeping a boy in a crew-cut will protect him from experimenting with drugs, or that cutting a boy's hair will make him stop using drugs if he is already involved.

We do not agree with those people who are so unsure of themselves as parents that they must rely on the authority of the school to control the length and style of their son's hair. We caution them that strict control of their children's physical appearance will not guarantee continued control of their values, beliefs, goals and ideas.

We do, however, believe it highly immoral for any one group of people to try to impose their particular brand of morality upon the rest of society. And if their morality does not include the courage to sign their names to a letter such as we received, then their brand of morality is very peculiar indeed.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sutton

EDITOR, SIERRA SUN:

Early August Donner Lake Sewer Hookup

Truckee Sanitary District has established a tentative sewer hookup date of August 1 for homeowners at Donner Lake, according to district manager Jack Marquette. Permits will be required prior to using the new facilities, but permits will not be issued until the line has been inspected and approved this summer.

Marquette pointed out that the sewer lines are still owned by the various contractors until approved and accepted by the district. Work is continuing on the main line along the north side of Donner Lake with completion scheduled prior to the August 1 target date.

Correction

In last week's Sierra Sun, William C. Brannan was incorrectly identified as assistant vice president of the Bank of America at Incline Village. He is actually assistant vice president of the Valley Bank of Nevada.

Also incorrectly listed last week, was the Western Auto store located at Kings Beach, rather than Incline Village.

Following the end of this school term, two well-loved families will leave Truckee, transferring to different locations. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Mahon and family will go to Colfax where Jim has been transferred with the Southern Pacific Railroad, as roadmaster there. Mr. and Mrs. Errol Kehm and family will move to Anchorage, Alaska, where Errol has accepted employment with the DuBois Chemical Company. Best wishes to you and we will miss you. Keep in touch.

Mr. Sheldon Beavers and wife, Carol, have recently moved to Truckee from Duluth, Minnesota. Mr. Beavers was raised in Merced, Calif. He attended Oregon State University and spent four years in the Marine Corps. He has recently been employed by the Minnesota Light and Power Company as a consulting engineer.

He has come to Truckee as office and sales manager of the Ponderosa Palisades Land Development and Investment Co. He has purchased a large share of that company and will reside at the Ponderosa Palisades Estates. He is the nephew of Butch and Vina Beavers. We welcome Sheldon and Carol to our community and hope they enjoy their lives in the Sierra Nevada.

Billie Weller, Hazel Beck, Candy Walker, Marge Sedgwick, Dorothy Owens, and Nels and Jeanne Stone are taking professional bowling lessons that are being given at Bowl Incline by Jack and LaVerne Edler. Jack and LaVerne are traveling bowling instructors working with the "Bowler Improvement Program." They traveled as far as Reno and were hired by the Starlite Bowl as general managers. After 20 years of traveling, they are ready to settle down. The goal for everyone in the class is a 180 average. Yours truly is up to 115.

Students from Sierra College that have announced their engagements and approaching marriages are Wayne Kusick and Cathy Powers, Jan Williams and Dave Frausto, Cathy and Wayne are from Truckee. Jan is from Tahoe Vista and Dave is from Lincoln. Jan and Dave will be married next week at a garden wedding at the Williams home in Tahoe Vista. Love and best wishes to both couples from their friends in Truckee.

A baby shower was held in Sacramento last week for Mrs. Richard Pomin, the former Mary Ann Moore. Mr. and Mrs. Pomin are living in Sacramento.

Happy to be back in Truckee is Jack Marquette. Mrs. Marquette is teaching school in Long Beach and will return permanently to Truckee June 20. Mr. Marquette has replaced Fred Hodder as manager of the Sanitary District in Truckee.

Lucille Quilici, president of the Firettes, has taken on the task of providing the Truckee Volunteer Fire Department with some cash to buy much-needed equipment as per last week's letter to the editor in the Sierra Sun. I know she will be successful. We all know how worthy the cause, have another suggestion: When paying your bills this month, why not make out a personal check for $5 and send it to the Fire Department? Your own personal satisfaction will be your reward when you hear that fire whistle blow.

Parents of the Truckee Little

He attended Chico college and was employed in Truckee by the Recreation and Park District.

Alethia Leahy, employed at Vail's Pharmacy in Truckee, and Leon Hutchins of Truckee were married last week in Reno. A reception was held at Ritchie's Restaurant Sunday afternoon. We wish them much happiness.

Rev. Jim Hutchinson, Methodist minister for Truckee, Kings Beach, and the south shore, will leave the area June 15, or thereabouts, when he will be assigned to another church. Jim and his wife, Pat, and children have made many friends in the area and I am sure they will be missed by all of us. Rev. Hutchinson came to Truckee when the Methodist church here was ready to fold. He, with the help of a handful of church women, brought the church out of debt and made it a pleasant place for worship. To me, Jim Hutchinson is an example of "God in Man" and I will miss not being able to call him for advice on many subjects. We all wish the Hutchinsons much happiness wherever they may be called and want them to know they have left an impression on our community.

Mr. and Mrs. C.R. Carrol have returned to Truckee after spending two weeks in the Hawaiian Islands. They reported a wonderful, fun, and vacation there. This comes under the "Happiness Is" category. Welcome home, Mr. and Mrs. Carrol.

Wilma Small Exchanges Vow With Clifford Reed May 17

Wilma Rae Small became the bride of Clifford Andrew Reed Jr. May 17 in nuptial ceremonies performed by the Rev. Leonard B. Sigle of Kings Beach at the First Baptist Church of Truckee.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Miles of Truckee and the groom is the son of Mrs. Margie Reed, Brice, Calif.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Barnett A. Darr of Sacramento, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white organza and lace. The gown was fashioned with a detachable lace train, a waistline encircled with scallops and scallops descending down the skirt and around the bottom. She carried a bridal bouquet of pink carnations on a white ribbon.

Attending the bride as matron of honor of Georgia Bihum, the bride's sister, of Fallbrook, Calif. Junior bridesmaid was Betty Small, the bride's sister, of Truckee. Karen Bihum, a niece, was flowergirl and the bride's brother, Rocky Miles, was ringbearer.

The attendants wore floor-length gowns of blue, pink and yellow and carried pink carnations on white ribbons. Their gowns were all made by the bride.

Jimmie R. Brazeal, Truckee, was best man. Ushers were Willard Small and Sid Small, both of Truckee. Michael Bihum, Fallbrook, was junior usher.

The wedding cake for the couple was made by Mrs. Josephine Darr.

The new Mrs. Reed is a 1968 graduate of Tahoe-Truckee High School. She and her new husband are making their home in Truckee.

$10 Million Complex Set

"The best planned and most desirable condominium - recreation complex in Lake Basin will be the Rocky Ridge Project," said Don Beck, realtor in charge of sales and management for the $10,000,000 development.

Beck said the new development lies about a mile north of Tahoe City on a natural rock precipice. Overlooking the entire Lake Basin, the site offers a most "fantastic" view of the lake and the surrounding mountains.

The deluxe condominium units are being designed by architect James D. Morton. Herbert P. Beck Inc., leading custom builder in this area and brother of Don Beck will build the units. Project engineer is Joel Shouse of Murray & McCormick.

Developers are R. T. Nahas Co., Merrill Bros Co. and Weyerhaeuser Co. Featured will be underground utilities, private roads and entry gate and recreation areas consisting of swimming pools, tennis courts, lake front beach with pier, swimming, boating and picnic grounds.

"Privacy and open spaces is the keynote," said Beck.

"Density will be a low, low four units per acre, giving a feeling unattainable with higher density type units.

Completion date for the office building started Monday is July 1. Reservations for the first 20 units will be taken this summer. A total of 172 units are scheduled for the next five years.

Youth Earns Medals

It was a unique and thrilling Mother's Day this month for Mrs. Marg Walker of Tahoe Vista, who opened a letter from her son in Vietnam to find he had enclosed medals awarded for heroism in action.

SP4 William Beman, a 1966 graduate of Tahoe-Truckee High School is her son. He went into the service last year and shipped out to Vietnam Aug. 18. Bill's first award was the Army Commendation Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster for heroism during enemy action on Feb. 2 of this year.

Bill's other medal, the Bronze Star carries two Oak Leaf Clusters for heroism during action on March 16 and 25.

In one action Bill's armored personnel carrier was hit, his crew wounded. He helped evacuate the wounded under heavy fire and "placed devastating fire on the insurgents' positions" throughout the entire conflict.

The second oak leaf cluster was added to Bill's award when he had to take over coordination of his platoon and direct their movement during which he "continuously exposed himself to the heavy volume of hostile fire."

Bill's mother, grateful and proud, says she hopes Bill's many friends keep praying for his safe return. "I think God deserves the credit for all."

Bill's stepfather is Charles Walker of Tahoe Vista. His father and stepmother are Walter and Letha Beman of Bell Gardens, Calif.

Donner Doings

By VI WHITE
Strong winds and choppy water sort of curtailed good fishing on Donner Lake last weekend and kept waterskiers beached, at the east end at least.

Another deterrent to fishing surely is the silt that has been allowed to filter out into the water from built up banks not properly secured with bulkheads of some kind. A shame that some people disregard a natural fact that when the water gains full height, loose soil will contaminate the lake.

An annual clean-up is scheduled for Saturday by the Donner Lake Property Owners' Association. Members are asked to bring rakes, saws, shovels and hammers to the beach at 10 a.m. The swimming area will be roped off, as well as fixing a new standard for the volleyball net and putting up signs.

Officers are: president, John D. Bowden, 3360 Johnson Road, Lafayette, Ca. 94549; secretary, Mrs. Ollie Ross, 3731 Laguna Way, Sacramento, Ca. 95825; treasurer, William A. Murphy, 2639 - 24th Avenue, San Francisco, Ca. 94116. New members are to pay a $20 initiation fee along with dues of $20 a year. The D.L.P.O.A. has a local address, P. O. Box 1302, Truckee, Ca. 95734. Tom McLaughlin is beach chairman.

Wish to welcome back for the summer, Elsie and Wes Goodwin who have wintered it out at Palm Springs. Unfortunately though, their cabin on South-shore Drive suffered some damage due to the heavy snow pack this year, but it is liveable and they are happy to be back in their mountain retreat. Wes is quite a fisherman and he expects to do a lot here.

Just had to try out Davis Lake after all the reports of fabulous catches there and did our best along with Les Hadley, Felicia and Chuck Lomax, to bring back limits too. Those nice big Rainbow were quite a challenge to bring in and I know I'll never hear the end of the goof when failing to net a good one Carson had hooked. Had the same trouble at Donner one time when the fish hit the edge of the net and swam off. Funny how so many people know about it even before we came to shore; seems his yelling carried across the water oh so clearly.

Tahoe City, your slip is showing. Your sign between Truckee and Gateway is about to fall down. It needed paint last year, but now it's barely standing. Truckee and Donner residents are trying hard to improve the image here that we really do want to be proud of our area. Won't you please help us?

Ginny Stroh took second place in the girls division at the Marysville water ski meet last Saturday. Lynn Giovoni had trouble and didn't complete her first run; Glory Beal of Squaw Valley was fourth. Charlie White was in a four place tie and placed fifth.

The Donner Lake Coffee Shop will be headquarters of the Donner Lake Water Ski Club this year. Alice and Paul Stroh have operated the good eatery along with La Marina Lodge for several years. Anyone interested in more information about the waterski club may write to: P. O. Box 1712, Truckee, Ca. 95734.

Hope the weather is good for the coming Memorial Day weekend when so many people are expected to be up enjoying our area. The Donner Memorial State Park has a few campground spaces available now that the snow is melting and most motels have accepted advanced reservations. Don't forget to fly the flag proudly.

ENJOYED FESTIVITIES - One of the large dinner parties participating in the Tahoe Forest Hospital Auxiliary Sierra Spree at North Shore opening May 15 included, from left, Mrs. S. Amoroso, Mrs. J.J. Amoroso, C. Surprise, J. Surprise, D. Kitchen, Harry Surprise, Mrs. Bannon and Mrs. Harry Surprise. The event raised funds to complete the auxiliary project of purchasing the hospital's Aquamatic Thermia K Blanket. The blanket is already in use and credited with saving a life.

County Issues Plant Permits

Placer County building permits for the construction of an $800,000 sewage treatment plant and two pump stations at $60,000 each have been issued to Tahoe City Public Utility District.

The treatment plan, located above Tahoe City on the Lake Tahoe basin divide, is under construction and scheduled for operation late this year.

The system is expected to eventually handle all sewage from Crystal Bay on the north end of the lake to D.L. Bliss State Park on the south.

North Lake Tahoe Chamber Pot-Shots

By BETTY LAYTON
A vast community effort is needed for the Lake Tahoe Summer Festival. The North Lake Tahoe Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a grand opening dinner show at the new Cal-Neva June 27 to raise funds (tickets will be a donation and tax deductible) for the perpetuation of the summer outdoor concerts. When an organization is dedicated to bring top name talent into the area, no matter what the affiliation, one must get behind the drive to keep alive such a program that will bring world wide publicity to North Lake Tahoe.

Dr. Werner Gebauer, who is with the Chamber Symphony of California, is in the area to coordinate the festival and is making speaking engagements with any organization to enlighten the area in the formation of a Lake Tahoe summer music festival committee or auxiliary. It will keep the continuity of top name attractions in concert in the area. There will be membership of various denominations available.

The highlight of this summer will be Marion Anderson, Shelley Manne and Victor Borge who will appear in concert along with the Chamber Symphony Orchestra from Los Angeles, August 15-17 in the scenic outdoors at Alpine Meadows. Call the chamber office for more details.

For the needs of the visitors to the area, the chamber will publish a church directory placard with information regarding all church services in the area. This will take the place of four or five as formerly printed by individual churches and will be available for motels and places of business to display.

In Rev. Alan Blume of the United Church of Christ we have a dedicated, talented individual who is looking to the real basic need of the community. He'll be taking a year's leave of absence to train in Los Angeles at the Institute of Family Relations to be well equipped to fill the ever increasing need in counselling couples in family retaining. He plans to return to lend his talents to North Lake Tahoe. He said the need is very great. The United States has 38,000 registered counsellors but 150,000 are actually needed.

Without publicity or fanfare, the membership committee is off and running. During the past week, new members to join the ranks of the fast-growing Chamber are Butlers of Tahoe, located in the Cobblestone Bldg., in Tahoe City; Currier's Appliance Sales & Service, located at South Shore but who service the North Shore; Cedar Craft Leisure Homes, Inc., a new Pre-Fab Bldg. operation in Cobblestone, T.C.; and Anchor Printing Co., South Lake Tahoe. The board of directors of the chamber met Wednesday, May 21, to approve a tentative budget for 1969-70, which will be subject to revisions, of over $60,000. Present budget for the year which ends July 1 is expected to exceed $46,000. A larger membership is being stressed for greater community-wide participation.

Patronize the chamber members who support the area in wide promotion and advertising. Committee members will be calling on present and future chamber members during the next two or three weeks.

Really the unsung hero of the great Optimist Memorial Flagpole Dedication is Don Prouty who works for the T.C.P.U.D. It was Don's idea that someone in the community should mount a flagpole on the Commons in Tahoe City and it was through his efforts that a pole was ordered through the chamber and it was the Optimist Club who met the challenge to see the project through. The Memorial Day dedication of the plaque at the base of the flagpole to all war veterans at North Lake Tahoe is a true memorial to local boys who have given their lives for their country. The Optimist Club wives are also very busy with their bizarre in Carnelian Bay which will feature new and used items of all description. It runs from May 29 to June 6. The Tahoe City Women's Club is also active. Isobel Bruchlacher and Eunice Hendriksen hauled 15 boxes of used man's clothing to the Veterans Hospital in Reno. A truly appreciated gesture.

A greater, friendlier group of ambassadors could never be found than the Iowans who stopped briefly at North Lake Tahoe Saturday. They brought their own Dixie Land Band and played at the Chataux before their lunch. They introduced the Iowa-three-way drink which consisted of tomato juice, vodka and beer!

Racquet Club Opens Saturday

Incline Village Racquet Club gets its 1969 summer season under way Saturday, with two exhibition tennis matches, free champagne from 4-6 p.m. The Mickey Gentile Trio will be featured in the restaurant from 6:30 p.m. to 4 a.m. The public is invited to the day's activities.

Professionals Dave Farmer and Dean Schlobohm will participate in the exhibition matches.

Cedar Craft Leisure Homes Opens Tahoe City Offices

A Tahoe City office of Cedar Craft Leisure Homes, Inc., has been opened in Cobblestone Center.

From head office in Cupertino, Calif., Robert I. Ward, Cedar Craft president, announced that the Tahoe City office was opened in an effort to bring "a quality construction package to the Tahoe area with a price to satisfy a variety of buyers."

Cedar Craft construction projects in the basin include a condominium at Incline Village and houses in the Cathedral Heights, Carnelian Heights and South Lake Tahoe areas.

HEAR YE! HEAR YE! — "We are gathered here tonight," said George Requa solemnly, "to . . . HAVE FUN!" He was speaking to some 80 California Fire Chiefs and their wives dining at Crystal Bay Club Saturday as a climax to the group's convention held last week in Sacramento. Shown during dinner are, from left, Mrs. Al Henry, Tahoe City Fire Chief Al Henry, Mrs. Richard Bast; Requa, who was dinner chairman and is fire chief of the Sacramento County Arcade Fire Department; Eldon Landback, senior deputy state fire mar-

Tahoe City Memorial Parade Set

Memorial Day will be observed in Tahoe City in a very special way when the Tahoe City Optimists will present to the community a memorial flag located at the Tahoe City Commons.

The flag and stand will serve as a permanent tribute to all veterans of North Tahoe and the idea for this gift to the community was presented to the Optimists by Don Prouty of Lake Forest.

The dedication ceremony is slated to take place at 10:00 a.m. on May 30 and the dedication will be preceded by a parade from the Safeway Shopping Center to the Commons.

Many youth groups will participate in the flag raising ceremony. All youth and community groups are invited to participate in the parade and those participating are requested to gather in the parking lot of the Safeway Shopping Center between 9:00 and 9:15 a.m. on the 30th.

The arrangements committee, consisting of Bernard Mendonca, Monty Huckle and Jim Corkerey, have announced that a special guest, Tahoe pioneer Mrs. Stella Watson, will be one of the speakers at the ceremony.

PUD Told To Apply For Funds

Economic Development Administration has encouraged North Tahoe and Tahoe City Public Utility Districts to apply to the EDA Seattle office for $825,000 in federal grants on sewer projects.

The letter encouraging the application for federal funds was sent to the districts following a preapplication conference in Tahoe City last month.

EDA officials wrote, "We have reviewed these proposed projects in the light of your descriptions, EDA policies and potential funding situation. We suggest that you submit applications for only the following listed projects as here recommended."

Recommended to Tahoe City was an application for $405,000 on a west shore sewage export line which will cost $2.5 million.

The district hopes to get $810,000 from the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration in addition to the other grant.

Whether the utility districts get their grants still depends upon how much money Congress appropriates and whether the EDA program is continued by Congress.

Jr. Statesmen Youth Group Is Explained To Club Women

Cheryl Bechdolt, Tahoe — Sierra Junior Women's Club "Miss Teenage Citizen" candidate, was honored at the club's meeting last week.

Featured at the meeting were two members of the Sierra Chapter Junior Statesmen, a youth group. Laura Hoxsie, chapter president, and Gary Price, regional mayor, said there are 60 members in the local chapter and some 6,000 members nationally.

The young people said purpose of the group is to promote interest in national affairs and teach parliamentary law by debating and passing resolutions on state and national problems.

Chapter resolutions go before the group's regional congress and if passed are then sent to Incline High School's First Graduation.

You should have been there, Larry Borino, typing instructor, says that it was absolutely fantastic. It seems that the adult educational shorthand class assembled for the last time at the Borino home.

After the serving of punch and snacks, came the big surprise of the evening. Principal Carl Shaff and Vice Principal Robert Corley joined the small group. Mr. Shaff passed out "Certificates of Completion" to all in attendance. This was a joyous and pleasant ending to Incline's very first adult education class.

The names of the graduating adults are as follows: Terry Baker, Carol Borino, Jacki Cromwell, Pennie Erickson, Velda Farris, Ella LaFrance, Leanna Lervig, Linda Robinson, and Ernie Sharp.

The Incline High School reading tutoring program has been a very big step for the benefit of those sixth, seventh and eighth graders who don't have a high reading ability.

The program was started about five weeks ago by a girl who has a sincere interest in helping her fellow students.

She is a junior at Incline, Mae Kindred, Mae has encouraged other students to participate in her very worthwhile idea.

Among those students who have joined Mae in the program are, Cindy Bensen, Vicki Mollhagen, Hilda DeCampos, Leslie Mullaard, Bill Englehart, Steve Marean, Glenn Simpson, Carrie Smith and Wendall Prows.

The purpose of this program is to help the youngest classroom read with a greater speed and obtain higher comprehension of what they read.

Mondays, Tuesdays, and Wednesdays the students meet at the high school from 3:30 to 4:30. Each tutor has a few students to work with. During the first half hour of the session, the pupils work with light reading.

The Chataux Will Reopen On June 15

The Incline Chataux has rescheduled its grand spring reopening for Father's Day, June 15. James O. Carey, club and resort manager announced today.

Carey will host a cocktail hour, 5 — 6 p.m. that day, to give Dad a break.

The original opening day, June 5, was canceled, according to Carey, to make sure everything was in good order, following the $40,000 improvement and redecorating plan that is to be completed by the end of this month.

"On Spring Opening Day we will also be open for lunch 11 a.m. — 2 p.m. daily," Carey said.

Tony Austin & Co., will continue to delight crowds nightly with their fresh new sound every night of the week except Monday and Tuesday.

Remodeling has failed to reduce the crowds that have been dining and dancing at the country club restaurant throughout this month.

CAP Reveals Encampments

The Tahoe Truckee Composite Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol at its recent meeting at the Truckee Airport was host to three members of the Sparks Composite Squadron: Maj. T. Rice, Lt. Wehem and Cadet Lt. Mumm.

Assignments for the summer encampments were verified and Cadet Sgt. Pat Northrup will attend the Space Age Orientation Encampment in Colorado; Cadet Staff Sgt. Laura Hoxsie will attend the Nurses Orientation Workshop at Shepherd Field in Texas.

Cadets just completing phase 1 are qualified to attend the two-week summer encampment at Mountain Home AFB in Idaho.

All cadets in the Nevada Wing who have completed Phase II and applied for a specific assignment received their appointments, including one cadet from the Sparks Squadron who will participate in the International Cadet Exchange Program and will tour Europe meeting other cadets.

Maj. Rice and Cadet Lt. Mumm addressed the combined assembled group about the plans for a combined drill team unit from all Northern Nevada squadrons to compete against members of the Southern unit for the privilege of representing the state of Nevada in national competition in the east in an area to be designated by national headquarters. Reviewing the Nevada units will be members of the Armed Forces.

Two direct orders were presented the squadron from wing headquarters; the communications network time will be extended and all stations are to be on the air five nights a week, and, this Squadron is to actively participate with the South Shore Squadron in direction, recruiting, and testing for that unit. To initiate this new program, Capt. Frank Lawson and Lt. Geri Bean, testing officer for the squadron, attended that squadron's Thursday night meeting and tested squadron members on phase I material.

Land Registration Act Explained By Realtor

A new law which requires many interstate land sellers to register with the Federal Government does not lessen the need for personal inspection of any property being considered for purchase, the president of Tahoe-Sierra Board of Realtors has advised.

Alex Pepi Gassiot explained that regulations implementing the Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act went into effect April 28. Under these regulations, sellers of 50 or more unimproved lots must, in most cases, file a detailed statement of record or registration statement with the newly formed Office of Interstate Land Sales Registration in the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

"It is important for would-be purchasers to realize that this new law is designed to be a disclosure statute, and nothing more," Gassiot declared.

"There is a tendency on the part of the public to assume that because the Federal Government agency has cleared a registration statement, the judgment of the government is that the property for sale is reasonably priced. This is erroneous," he said.

The new law merely assures that the purchaser has all the facts about the property available to him before he enters into a transaction. It is still the responsibility of the buyer to study the data and make his decision accordingly.

"We members of the National Association of Real Estate Board have for years advised property buyers to inspect personally any land they are considering buying. What is more, this advice is just as valid now, even with the new full disclosure law in effect, as it ever was," Gassiot reported.

"The success of the new Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act as another consumer protection law will depend on the restraint exercised by developers, the government's land sales registration office, and the public," he stated.

"The best assurance for the buyer that he is getting his money's worth in any real estate transaction, however, is personally to inspect the property and to confer with a professional in real estate.

"Whether buying or selling real property, it is wise to see a realtor, for in order to use that term, registered in the U.S.

Patent Office, a real estate practitioner must be a member of the local and state boards and of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. More important to the real estate seller or seeker, a realtor subscribes to a strict, specific code of ethics," Gassiot noted.

West Shore Notes

By ELLEN ATTARDI

The last snowflake of the season must have fallen—Mrs. Stella Watson is back at Tahoe at her Highlands residence after wintering in Greenbrae down the Bay Area way.

Welcome back, Stella.

The Lake Tahoe Golf Club will hold its first meeting of the season on Sunday, June 1 at 4 p.m. at the club house of the Tahoe City Golf Course. Jim Brehler of Carnelian Bay is president of the group this season.

Three hundred and twenty-eight Girl Scouts—Brownies, Juniors and Cadets—from Donner, Truckee, Kings Beach, Incline and Tahoe City much enjoyed a Camporee staged at Sugar Pine Point State Park last weekend. Director of the Camporee was Muriel Wisler of Truckee and Nurse was Roberta Huber, also of Truckee. They were assisted by a large staff of volunteer mothers and also assisting with arrangements was Fran Hodgkins of Sugar Pine Point State Park.

Mrs. Katherine McBride was hostess to the Tahoe TST's at a luncheon at her Tahoe City home last Thursday. Special guest of the day was Mrs. Donna Coubertley.

Two women's clubs—the Wyethia Club of Truckee and the Women's Club of Tahoe City—will hold a joint installation of officers at a luncheon meeting to be held at 12 noon at the Crystal Bay Club on June 5. Beverly Wilson will be installed as president of Wyethia while Marge Thomasberg will be initiated into her seat as president of the Tahoe City group.

Other officers being installed are, for Tahoe City: Dorothy Swanson, vice president; Evelyn Surridge, corresponding secretary; Laura Wilson, recording secretary; and Isabel Stockland, treasurer. Wyethia Club new officers are Louise Tapia, vice president; Dorothy Fordham, secretary; and Marika Cattan, treasurer. Installing officer will be Jean Patterson, president of the Sutter District of the Federated Women's Clubs.

Program chairman Marjorie Spafford has announced that a special feature of the installation luncheon will be a fashion show presented by the North Tahoe Sierra Junior Women's Club. Another feature will be the awarding of door prizes generously donated by local merchants. All community members are invited to attend the event and reservations may be made by phoning either 525-7655 or 583-4878.

A group of Tahoe golfers much enjoyed a home-and-home tournament with the Auburn Valley Country Club held at the Auburn course last Sunday. First place honors in the four-man best-ball tournament went to the team which included Tahoe swingers Chris Bonino and Chal Cross. Tahoe golfers in the foursome which came in second were Carl Becholt and Ivan Wilson, while Audrey Brehler and Angie Bonino were members of the team which came in third.

Among those participating in the tournament were Steve and Wilma Korch, Martin and Barbara Spitsen, Harvey and Leah Hopkins, Bob and Marilyn Fugazi, John and Billie Finnegan, Neal Gates and Jack and Judy Semmens.

Get-well-quick wishes to Mrs. John Diggs of Dollar Point and Sacramento who is patient at Sutter General Hospital in Sacramento.

Visiting with Dave and Roma Young at their Highlands Greens home for several days last week was Roma's sister, Mrs. Marvin Hagen of Westchester, New York.

Celebrating his ?? birthday last Friday was Dr. Rich Tierney of the Highlands.

Big winner of the $100 prize at the annual Month 'O May party held at the Crystal Bay Club on Sunday evening was Max Hoff of the Chamberlands. This buffet party is sponsored by the entire staff of the Tahoe Truckee Unified School District and proceeds from the affair are given as a scholarship to a graduating senior of the High School.

MC'ing the event were Andy Antonucci and Cliff Frazier of the Tahoe Lake School.

Visiting with Mrs. Joan Lewis at her Tahoe home for several days last week was her sister, Frances Jones of San Francisco.

The first birthday of the Tahoe City Health Foods is being celebrated on May 28 and for several days after. A great interest in health foods has forced owners Carl and Dorothy Edstrand to expand their facilities in the Henriksen Building in Tahoe City.

A recent Tahoe visitor was former Highlands resident Mrs. Bob McClanahan who now resides in San Francisco.

Proud grandparents are Ivan and Laura Wilson of Tahoe Pines who became grandparents for the fifth time last week when Todd Shawn made his appearance in the family of Dr. and Mrs. James Silverman of Sacramento.

Chuck and Eunice Henriksen of Dollar Point will be in attendance on May 31 at the golden wedding anniversary celebration of Eunice' aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Duffy of Sacramento. The celebration will be held in the Masonic Temple in Sacramento.

Vacationing in Hawaii are Mr. and Mrs. Larry Harrington of Dollar Point. Enjoying the island respite with them is Mrs. Sharon Park of Tahoe City.

Back at home recuperating from surgery performed in a bay area hospital two weeks ago is Mrs. Wayne Poulsen of Squaw Valley.

Don Wilson of the Tahoe City Optimist Club was nominated and elected lieutenant governor of District 14 of the Pacific Central District of the Optimists at a four day conference held two weeks ago at the Hotel Utah in Salt Lake City. The local group was also honored when it was named top club of District 14 which includes clubs in South Tahoe, Reno, Incline and Tahoe City.

The conference celebrated the 50th birthday of Optimist International and among those attending the confab were Jim and Rose Sergi, Ray and Helen Darling, Bill and Marge Thomasberg and Don and Lorry Wilson.

The Tahoe City Women's Golf Club will hold an organizational meeting on June 2 at 8 p.m. at the Carnelian Bay home of president Audrey Brehler. All interested women golfers, beginners as well as advanced, are cordially invited to join this group. Information on details of their program may be obtained by phoning Mrs. Brehler at 546-3844.

Recently moved into their new home in Highland Greens are Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Moyer.

Congratulations to Don and Sally Prouty of Lake Forest who recently won a seven day vacation trip for two from a Sacramento shopping center. They have their choice of vacationing in Reno, South Tahoe, Las Vegas or Florida and when last heard from, Sally was priming for Las Vegas while Don thought Reno might be the best spot, but our bet is on Florida! The vacation may be taken any time within the next year.

Two North Tahoe youth groups last weekend changed their scene of activities from the mountains to the seashore as the group vacationed in the Santa Cruz area.

The Newman Club of the Corpus Christi Church spent a great weekend at the O'Leary residence at Delasolva Beach near Santa Cruz and Aptos and those enjoying the salty air were Leslie McBride, Lynn Duttweiler, Bob Everson, Mike Becholt, Debbie Everson, Jim Day, Cathy VanWetter and Katie DeLacey. Chaperoning were Mrs. Jack Duttweiler, Mrs. Dave McBride and Bernard Mendonca.

The youth group from the United Church of Christ in Squaw Valley and the Christ the King Lutheran Church in Tahoe City spent their weekend in Santa Cruz and those making the trip were Bill Newell, Glenn Johnston, Cathy Stormer, Carol Hall, Rick Holley, Doug Lindsey, John Olson, Ed Stormer, Tim Johnston, Don Perkins and Bob Jones. New Groups Open In Topaz Room

The pace is moving fast this week in the Topaz Room at the Nevada Lodge, North Lake Tahoe. Two exciting groups opened at the Lodge as the Hal Diamond Trio wound up its engagement.

Tuesday Eileen Suyama and the Jerry Rowan Trio took over the spotlight in the Topaz Room. Through June 15, Miss Suyama's clear, resonant voice will be heard singing such popular hits as "Sonny," "Call Me," and "George Girl." Rowan emcees their shows and harmonizes with Gene Argel and Bud Brown, both members of his trio.

This evening the Johnnie Earl Trio joins the Suyama and Rowan team, and will be on stage through June 17. During their lively performances, Dave Troncoso and Jack Navarra back up singer- pianist Earl on the bass and drums. Earl, whose specialty is contemporary jazz, is in the process of cutting a record for RCA which will be released soon.

DINNER FOR THREE - Norma Shearer Arrouge and husband, Marty Arrouge, right, were entertained at dinner by Karl Weber at his River Ranch resort. The Arrouges are on their annual visit to Lake Tahoe and Donner ski areas which they have been visiting for many years. Chef Jan Hoevenaer is serving the famed former motion picture star. Weber, world-wide hotel owner and honorary counselor for Austria, said the resort dining room, closed now, will reopen June 1.

Juggling The Books

An Occasional Peripatetic Literary Review

By CARL BRIGGS
Sun Editor

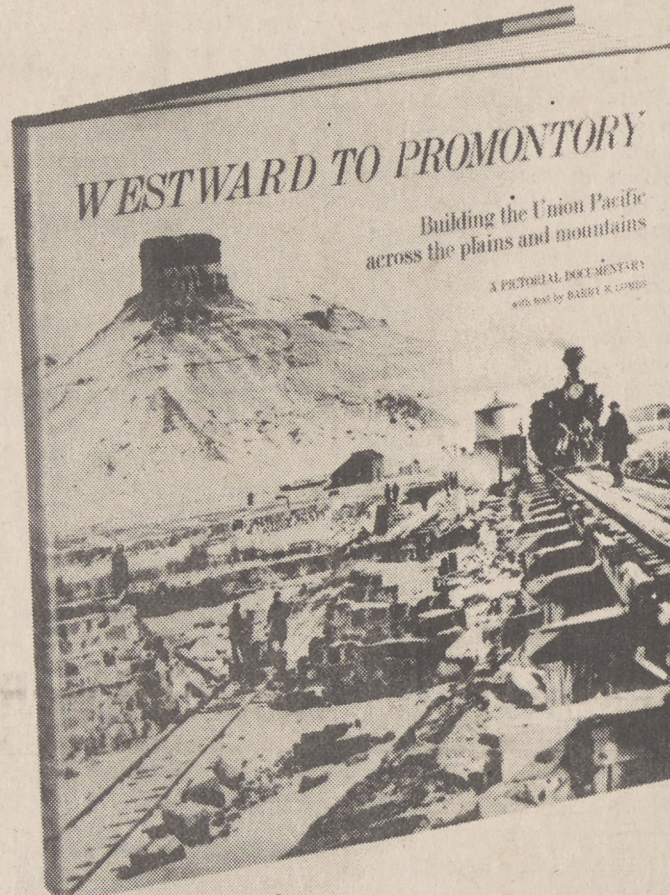

Each of the "Gold Spike" railroad books from American West Publishing Company of Palo Alto is a remarkable centennial publication, and while they are almost totally dissimilar in appearance, style, and content - or perhaps because of it - they will surely become valuable additions and essential documents in any library or collection.

While I received both books at the same time, "Westward to Promontory," by Barry B. Combs, and "High Road to Promontory," by George Kraus, it might be interesting to note that my attention was drawn first to the Combs book.

"Westward to Promontory" ($10.75) carries the subtitle, "Building the Union Pacific across the plains and mountains," and is a pictorial documentary in the display of Andrew J. Russell. Like a fine walking stick, this book falls easily to hand and, in fact, would be difficult not to pick up. It's that kind of book.

Russell was retained as Union Pacific photographer, and the author credits railroad officials - particularly the promotion-conscious vice-president of the line, Thomas C. Durant - with having a fortunate sense of historical moment.

In a large way, this is Russell's book. While the text supplied by Combs - Director of Public Relations for Union Pacific and an acknowledged authority on its history - is brief, perspective, and concise, the weight and substance of the book is in the remarkable century - old photographs. J. S. Holliday, Director of the Oakland Museum, in the book's foreword credits Dr. Robert C. Combs and the American Geographical Society of New York with protecting and preserving Russell's 10x13-inch wet-plate collodion negatives, and what a stroke of fortune this was for posterity.

Throughout the book, Barry Combs provides a running documentary for Russell's photographs, his captions excitingly set forth in large, easy-to-read Dominate type, and the text and illustrations tell the Union Pacific story as it has never been told before. "It was a grand Anvil Chorus that those pounding sledges were playing across the plains and mountains, in triple time; three strokes to the spike; ten spikes to the rail; 400 rails to the mile; 425 miles in 1868 on the road to Promontory and the completion of the great work of the age . . ."

All due credit over the past century has been accorded the transcontinental railroad for consolidating the war - torn union, for drawing our far-flung nation together, for establishing our geopolitical boundaries, for opening the western two-thirds of the continent to settlement. Here, finally, is the proof of that accomplishment, set forth in irrefutable black and white.

This is a fabulous document, and whatever your preference - railroads, Western Americana, the course of empire, or general American history - this book, "Westward to Promontory," must and will stand forth and be counted as very few historical accounts have done in recent years.

Music Festival To Draw Top Stars

A parade of top stars will feature the debut of the Lake Tahoe Summer Music Festival Aug. 15, 16 and 17, said David Irmer, founder of the non-profit Lake Tahoe Summer Music Festival Society, Inc. Irmer is also president of General American Development Corp., sponsor of this first festival.

The festival series will be presented under starlight and sunlight in the great natural amphitheatre of Alpine Peaks Bowl on the West Shore. The bowl, which can easily hold an audience of 4,000, borders the Alpine Meadows Ski Range.

Singer Marian Anderson, Victor Borge, the California Chamber Symphony and Shelly Maine and His Men are featured stars.

Miss Anderson will open the festival Friday, Aug. 15 in Copland's "Lincoln Portrait."

On Saturday evening Victor Borge will bring his unique approach to classical music to the Lake Tahoe shores.

Celebrating performance Sunday afternoon will be a Bach concert played first in the classical manner by the California Chamber Symphony and followed by the same Bach transcribed by Shelly Mann and His Men.

The California Chamber Symphony will be the resident orchestra throughout the summer festival.

"We intend to keep the overall theme of the music festival as casual and pleasant as a Lake Tahoe summer," said Irmer.

"In addition to the concerts already scheduled the festival society is holding discussions with an international celebrity who is more associated with comedy than classical music, in order to present a special concert for youngsters on Sunday morning."

Irmer said the festival is structured to be developed as an autonomous cultural event, with a close artistic and administrative liaison with the Chamber Symphony Society of California.

Henri Temianka, founder - director of the symphony society has agreed to act as director and conductor of the Lake Tahoe Summer Music Festival.

Dr. Werner Gebauer, administrative vice president of the Chamber Symphony Society of California, has already assumed the additional responsibility of general administrator of the Tahoe festival.

"Our scope will go well beyond an annual summer concert festival," said Irmer.

"Provisions are being made for the establishment of scholarships in various fields of music and the performing arts, as well as youth seminars when the festival is expanded to a two or three week season in 1970."

The scholarships and youth seminars, as well as the erection of a permanent festival pavilion at Lake Tahoe, will be financed in part with revenues accrued through the sale of television, film and recording rights.

Reservation information for the debut Lake Tahoe festival may be obtained from the Chamber Symphony Society in Los Angeles, the Lake Tahoe Summer Music Festival Society in San Francisco or at P. O. Box 678, Incline Village, Nevada or telephone area 916-546-2441, 546-2441.

Fire Restrictions Date Set For Tahoe National Forest

Henry E. Branagh, forest supervisor, announces that by authority of Secretary of Agriculture, the following fire restrictions will go into effect June 1, on the Tahoe National Forest.

Campfire permits will be required outside of designated camp and picnic grounds. Campfire permits will not be required in designated campgrounds or for stoves or lanterns within house trailers or campers outside designated camp or picnic areas. Permits may be voided during periods of very high or extreme fire weather.

Smoking will be permitted only in places of habitation, while stopped in cleared or barren areas of at least three feet in diameter and in improved campgrounds. Smoking will not be permitted while traveling on foot, cycle or domestic animal in grass, brush, timber or flammable vegetative cover or areas posted against smoking. All burning or glowing material must be completely extinguished before discarding.

The discharge of any fireworks is prohibited. It is unlawful to possess, fire or cause to be fired any tracer bullet or charge onto or across grass, brush, timber or lands covered with flammable vegetation.

Because the use of fire outside of designated campgrounds presents special hazards, issuance of campfire permits will be only by U.S. Forest officers, and supervising fire control agencies. Permits for campfires on National Forest lands may be obtained at all U.S. Forest Service and California Division of Forestry stations.

Supervisor Branagh points out that campfires on private land within the National Forest need written permission from the landowner, lessee or agent of the land. However, if the landowner has established and posted areas for camping, a permit is not required.

Quota Set For Tahoe Firewood

Five cords of dead wood per person may be cut this year in the Alder and Sagehen Creek areas, west of Prosser Reservoir in the Truckee Ranger District of the Tahoe National Forest.

NEW STANDARDS FOR DEVELOPERS

The Tahoe Regional Planning Agency recently stated they were considering a new standard for developing in the Tahoe Basin, with split level roads to minimize cuts and fills, planting the cuts and fills, and mandatory green belt areas within the subdivision.

We are proud to point out that we have been doing just this since we started planning GLENRIDGE PARK in 1964.

We are now developing units 2 & 3, with the finest lakeview lots ever offered at Lake Tahoe. Magnificent views of lake and mountains, virtually level building sites, beautifully wooded, easy access directly from highway 89. You must see them . . . and you will believe.

Pre-season priced from $9950 to $15,000, full price, with reasonable terms or cash discounts.

That's GLENRIDGE PARK, overlooking Meeks Bay. Setting a New Standard of Development for Lake Tahoe.

We also have a few lots left in Tahoma Meadows at $3,950 with improvement on bond, offering heated pool, beach and pier on McKinney Bay.

St. Francis Of Assisi Catholic Church Dedicates New Church Parish June 8

Incline Village will soon have one of the most beautiful and modern parish churches in the Lake Tahoe area.

On Friday, June 8, St. Francis of Assisi Catholic Church, located at Kelly and Mt. Rose will be dedicated, with Archbishop Joseph Dwyer of Portland, Ore., and Bishop Joseph Green of Reno joining Reverend Francis J. Cohan at the ceremonies. The Rev. Cohan is parish priest at St. Francis of Assisi. He has been at Incline Village since 1965 after arriving from County Donegal in Ireland.

BETTER HAVE IT READY—All in jest, The Rev. Francis Cohan reminds Len Campbell of the June 8 dedication of the new parish church of St. Francis of Assisi. Campbell has the job of making sure the natural gas furnace in the church is in operating order. He is employed by Murphy Sheet Metal Co. of Incline Village. The new parish church will have an initial seating capacity of 350. Archbishop Robert Dwyer of Portland, Ore., and Bishop Joseph Green are expected to be among the many honored guests at the June 8 dedication. The building is in the first of three stages and located at Mt. Rose and Kelly Drive.

Since 1966, church services have been held at the Crystal Bay Club and Lake Tahoe Hotel Sunday mornings and an evening service at the temporary chapel at 728 Kelly Drive.

At present, the new church is in the first of three construction stages.

The first stage is to be completed by the June 8 dedication and is called the Naive. It will seat 350 people.

A second stage, which involves adding the arms of the cross, would increase seating capacity to 750.

By September, a new rectory will be constructed at Mt. Rose and Kelly Drive, replacing the present one which is to be sold.

The new parish church has for the most part been built by Catholics and non-Catholics alike on a donated basis—much of the work and fixtures were presented without charge.

Furnishings and designs are done in Spanish motif. Bill Montgomery of Incline Village was architect.

The new church site on almost 14 acres of land, with the new church being one of, if not the largest in size at the North Shore of Lake Tahoe.

The Rev. Cohan says average attendance at the church during summers has been 650. During the winters it is 350. At present there are 45 resident families at Incline Village attending services with an additional 60 "second home" families during summers.

The basement of the new church will contain classrooms and a parish hall for religious instruction. The classrooms are expected to be completed by the end of June.

This year, more than 100 youths participated in religious instruction. The youths ranged from first graders to those of high school age.

Last Thursday was the final day for religious instruction for the youngsters.

St. Francis of Assisi has come a long way since the days of religious services being held at the Incline Chataux (September, 1965).

On June 8, the new parish church opens, modern, spacious and welcoming all to its doors.

Sierra Research Institute Ready To Go Into High Gear June 12

The Sierra Research Institute and Ralston School of Communicative Arts, a $350,000 investment, is the brainchild of three former Tahoe College professors—and a unique one at that. The aim? To eventually become one of the finest graduate colleges in the country.

Located at Campbell Road in Incline Village, the school's faculty now consists of Gilbert Ralston, 56, Friedrich von Brincken, 51 and John James, 35. One a combine basis, the three have 73 years of educational experience to offer.

What the Sierra Research Institute complex hopes to provide, in part, is scientific, research and services to business, government and scientific organizations.

On the other hand, Ralston's school emphasizes, to a select group of students, "everything a writer can learn about another way of life and the cultural ways of life."

Par of the educational complex is a movie theatre with a seating capacity of 210 for use with the drama school.

Ralston said the school will swing into full operation June 12.

Future plans call for language classes for children in primary grades, and later, art and music classes for people of all ages.

The three men emphasized that the Sierra Research Institute and Ralston School of Communicative Arts would "cooperate in every way possible with Tahoe College," and have invited the school's president, Thomas Neblett to inspect the facilities at Incline.

Von Brincken said he believed "the lake area will be stronger academically with the entire lake covered by both schools."

Both the Institute and the school are a nonprofit organization, Ralston said.

This August, the institute plans a conservation symposium, with some of the most important people in that field invited to attend as well as the public.

Ralston said 65 lectures in almost every conceivable field have been invited to his school. School enrollment is estimated by Ralston to be from 50-60.

Literary lecturers are those who have been invited, primarily, but each lecture is aimed at helping students understand every aspect of communicative arts and to help the students bridge the gap from academic learning to the world of competition.

Von Brincken will conduct small business clinics, while James specializes in environmental studies, not only within the Tahoe Basin, but in other areas of the West.

For information about any aspect of the school, call 831-1314 or 831-1072 or write Sierra Research Institute, c/o Professor John James at Box 15, Incline Village, Nev., 89450.

Incline High Students Initiate 'Own Program'

Ten Incline High Students did their part in countering adverse reaction to today's youth and did their part in getting involved in today's society.

The 10 youths, are Mae Kindred, whose initial idea sparked the project, Steve Marean, Cindy Benson, Leslie Mullard, Bill Engelhard, Hilda deCampos, Carrie Smith, Glenn Simpson, Wendall Prows and Vicki Mollhagen.

The program—a unique style of reading tutoring, which greatly benefitted the sixth, seventh and eighth graders who needed the welcomed help.

Lasting six weeks, the program helped the young 11th and 12th grade instructors as well as their students in learning how to work together while aiding the students in increasing their speed of reading and comprehension.

Jim Conkey was advisor in this reading program. He is chairman of the high school's science department.

This was the first venture of its kind in Washoe County, Conkey said, although Clark County in southern Nevada has had the program for several years.

Conkey says the program will be continued next school year and called it a great success.

Next year, fourth and fifth graders are to be included in the program.

Miss Kindred helped the idea off to a flying start after she and other students wanted to get involved in with the problems favoring youth in the present society. The students felt that reading was a key factor in keeping youngsters in school and to supplement this "anti-dropout" campaign they did their part.

There were 25 students in the program, and when the course was completed, 21 remained.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION CLASS—Part of the more than 100 students who completed religious instruction last Thursday at St. Francis of Assisi Catholic Church gathered before the church parish prior to crowning of the May Queen.

CROWNING OF THE MAY QUEEN—The final day of religious instruction at St. Francis of Assisi Catholic Church last Thursday was highlighted by the ceremonial crowning of the May Queen, with Benediction. Jackie Faber was Queen, attended by Lisa Kistluk, Jean Congemi and Laura Murry. The children were assisted by Sisters Elizabeth, Bernadette and Mary Lou of Reno. St. Francis of Assisi is located at Kelly Drive in Incline Village.

Two Nevadans Get New Duties

New Cal-Neva Lodge Officially Opens

The new Cal-Neva Lodge at Crystal Bay officially opened today, Jack Douglass, a partner in the casino-hotel, announced. According to Douglass the Lake View Gourmet Restaurant, Town and Country Coffee Shop, Casino and Casino Lounge are in full operation.

The Cal-Neva's 200-room addition and Theatre Restaurant will open Friday, June 27. "The Party" and Kline and Guild have been signed to open the Casino Lounge. "The Party" will swing from 4 p.m. to 2:30 a.m., along with Kline and Guild, who for the past years played the Redwood Room in Sacramento, breaking all attendance records.

Douglass also announced that Allan Lee's "Tokyo Holiday" with an all Japanese cast will headline the new Theatre Restaurant.

The Cal-Neva Lodge was purchased this year by a group of prominent Reno businessmen who also own the Cal-Neva Club in downtown Reno. In addition to the new 200 rooms, will be 50 bungalows and chalets.

The new resort-casino hotel will have a larger casino with convention facilities. The convention area will include six rooms, with 15,000 square feet of meeting rooms and exhibit space.

Incline Child Care To Celebrate Anniversary

Incline Child Care Center, located at 880 Northwood in Incline Village, will be celebrating its second anniversary this August.

The center cares for children ages 2 through 10, five days a week, from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. although evening hours are available if parents call in advance at 831-1474.

is the only one of its kind licensed for child care at the North Shore.

Mrs. Smith is assisted by Mrs. Jo Conkey and Mrs. Betty Uhlhorn. Two of the three ladies are always on duty at the center, which caters to residents and non-residents alike.

A present, the center has an enrollment of 30 youngsters. Planned activities this summer at the center will include morning classes for the 3-7 year-olds, with organized class time, art, physical fitness, nature hikes and music. These activities begin June 9.

A special "sleep room" and "quiet room" for children whose parents wish them to take naps is available and lunches are served each day, as well as a post-school snack.

Gives Opinion On Paroles

CARSON CITY - Nevada Atty. Gen. Harvey Dickerson has ruled that state prison inmates serving two or more consecutive sentences cannot be paroled from the first in order to begin serving the second sentence.

In an opinion sought by Philip P. Hannifin, chief parole and probation officer, Dickerson said, "We believe this would violate a statute or court order that directs sentences to be served consecutively."

Library Adds New Paintings

A birthday gift and a new hobby have contributed to the group of oil paintings now to be seen at Incline Branch Library.

The birthday gift was a set of oil colors received by Dick May last October. Until a few months ago, May's artistic output was limited to stone-masonry; and many local homes rest on foundations and boast fireplaces and other stonework demonstrating his thorough craftsmanship.

In January, came a chance to lay aside the trowel and take up a paint brush in his spare time, and Dick May has been a "Sunday painter" ever since.

The exhibit consists of landscapes in glowing colors, the most recent of which is only days old.

Incline Village residents for the past six years, Dick and Ruth are parents of Paul, a University of Nevada sophomore, and Chris and Diane, who are fifth- and second-grade students at Incline Elementary School, where the branch library is located.

The collection of paintings will remain on display through June 6, and the library may be reached at 831-0800.

Incline Branch Library reports recent gifts of books and magazines have been received from: Georgia Warren, Carol Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Marty, Barbara Norris, Mr. and Mrs. Al Kuckhoff, Mrs. Charles Uhrig, Tod LaFrance and Rochelle Baker.

Swobe Calls For New Probe

State Sen. Coe Swobe, R-Reno said last week his personal inspection has revealed that rocks and land fill have been used on a jetty at Burnt Cedar Beach at Lake Tahoe.

Swobe has called for the State Division of Environmental Health to conduct a study of the site near Incline Village after he said the land fill could cause pollution to the lake.

After the inspection with Ernest Gregory, chief of the division, and Roy Robinette, president of the North Lake Tahoe Property Owners Association,

OUTDOOR RECREATION

Incline Village's Fred Schultz has recently returned to his new office on Tahoe Boulevard after successfully completing the Marvin Starr "Advanced Tax Seminar" for investors.

Schultz has taken several other real estate investment courses in preparation for this advanced study which was brought to Reno by the Reno Board of Realtors.

Schultz said Starr's course was the most comprehensive of all training he had received since it dealt with the "real world" conditions of today's real estate investments. "Starr compared investment real estate to other investment plans under many sets of circumstances," Schultz continued, "with real estate as the only investment plan that provided 'tax shelter' for ordinary income coupled to stronger capital gains and a greater percentage of income based upon investment dollars."

Without relying upon "educated" guesses or crystal ball gazing" to predict increases in an investment, the real estate portfolio excels the claims of the other investment plans,

Schultz said, "Another distinct advantage to real estate is its stability in the market, wherein it does not reflect the impact of political changes around the globe," Schultz concluded.

The National Association of Real Estate Boards offers a complete line of education to its members in an effort to make its members "Realtors" more professional in their conduct of business thereby creating better service for the buyer and sellers in today's market.

State Parks Markers To Be Prepared

CARSON CITY - The Bureau of Public Roads and the State Highway Department have agreed to ask the State Parks Division to prepare historical markers for installation at two locations near Reno on Interstate 80.

Highway department surveys show the overlooks at McCarran in the canyon east of Sparks and at Mogul near the Nevada-California border are extremely popular rest sites for motorists.

Girl Elected To Pom Pom Team

Miss Candace King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James King of Incline Village was elected a member to the Pom Pom team Wooster High in Reno last week. Miss King cheered the Wooster Colts as a Pom Pom girl during her junior year and is looking forward to another great year with the team. She was awarded her letters in both football and basketball during an awards presentation ceremony this year.

"Courses will be offered on the Sierra campus, at Lake Tahoe and the field school of biology will study at the coast and in the Sierra," he stated, "With the tremendous program being offered this year, we expect a high enrollment and recommend that students make plans to register as soon as possible."

Special provisions have been made for Mail-In Registration which will be accepted prior to June 13. A catalog and Application is available from the college. Students desiring counseling may meet at the Administration Building on June 20 between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. The final day to register in person will be prior to noon on June 23. To be eligible to attend the Summer Session a student should either be a high school graduate or be over 18 years of age and desirous of furthering his education. Minors who are residents of California are not required to pay a fee. Out of state minors must pay a fee of $13.00 per unit. Those accepted for the Field School of Biology will be required to pay $55.00 in advance to cover meals and transportation while at the ocean and in the mountains. Additional information regarding the Field School is available from Dr. Ray Underhill, at Sierra College. For information related to the Lake Tahoe Session, Harold Chastain, Sierra College should be contacted.

classes, Evening Classes will also be offered in:

"As you can see from the wide range of courses being offered this summer, we are trying to provide something of interest for everybody," Akers said. "These are popular courses and programs and will literally expand our campus this summer from the Pacific Ocean to the Sierras. This is why we are stressing the urgency for an early sign-up before all classes are filled."

Information on all sessions is available from: Sierra College, 5000 Rocklin Road, Rocklin, Calif., 95677.

New Plants Acquired By Power Co.

RENO - Authorization for Sierra Pacific to proceed with acquisition of Southern California Edison Co. electric properties in Nye and Esmeralda Counties was granted by Sierra's board of directors Monday afternoon.

The board also approved acquisition of the Mineral County Power System by lease, a move which is subject to approval by Mineral County voters at a special election later this year.

Both acquisitions require approval of regulatory authorities.

Sierra Pacific President Neil W. Plath told the board the price of Edison's electric distribution and associated generation and transmission facilities would be about $3 million. He said he and T. M. McDaniel, Jr., Edison president, have agreed the exact price will depend on additions to Edison's system prior to the close of the transaction and establishing a value for Edison generating facilities.

Under the proposed agreement, Edison will provide power to Sierra Pacific for distribution within the area until the Reno-based utility merges the region into its regular power system in Nevada. The period of interim service will not exceed five years.

A similar interim service arrangement is included in negotiations for the Mineral County system and company and county officials are writing terms which will assure Mineral County customers of improved electric service reliability within five years. A reduction of rates to some 1,900 customers is contained in the tentative lease agreement.

Sierra would acquire 1,900 customers from Mineral and 1,600 customers from Edison and double its service territory to 36,600 square miles in Nevada and eastern California.

Plath told the board some final details of the Edison agreement are yet to be worked out but said this should be completed in about two weeks.

Earlier in the day Plath told stockholders, attending their annual meeting in Reno, of the proposed acquisitions. He also estimated Sierra's 1969 earnings would be about $1.30 a share, up from $1.20 in 1968.

Stockholders at the meeting voted to eliminate a long-standing corporate provision requiring the board to offer new common stock first to existing stockholders. Holders of almost 80 per cent of the outstanding shares approved the move.

All ten Sierra Pacific directors were reelected for one-year terms.

Mack Gets New OEO Position

State Highway Engineer John Bowden has announced the appointment of Luther Mack, Jr., of Reno to the position of Equal Employment Opportunity Coordinator for the Highway Department.

Mack, 31, assumes his new position in state employment, having previously served as Nevada State Job Corps Coordinator in Carson City, and as industrial service technician with the Department of Employment Security in Las Vegas. He is a former Marine Corps Sergeant. Born in Greenville, Illinois, Mack graduated from Reno High School in 1957. He studied engineering at Greer College, Chicago, and transferred to the school of Business Administration, University of Nevada. Currently he is enrolled in a La Salle extension law course.

Mack will coordinate equal opportunity employment practices as provided for in the Federal Aid Highway Act of 1968, which applies to the Department and to highway contractors.

Mack and his wife, Arma, make their home at 1701 West 6th Street, Reno.

Completes Training

FT. WOLTERS, TEX. (AHTNC) - Second Lieutenant Francis N. Frediani, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Frediani, Zephyr Cove, completed a 16-week helicopter pilot course at the Army Primary Helicopter School, Ft. Wolters, Tex., May 9.

During the course, he was trained to fly Army helicopters and learned to use them in tactical maneuvers.

He will next undergo advanced flight training at the Army Aviation School, Ft. Rucker, Ala.

Lt. Frediani entered the Army in September 1968 and was last stationed at Ft. Knox, Ky.

He received his commission through the Reserve Officers' Training Corps program at Seattle (Wash.) University, where he received his B.A. degree in psychology in 1968.

The burro descends from the North African gray donkey and probably was first tamed by men in the New Stone Age some 12,000 years ago.

ROUGH GOING - Heavy construction of the type shown here is typical of conditions encountered by contractors at Incline Village to extend Nevada's highway system for a single mile.

Road Work At Incline

INCLINE VILLAGE - After a long hard winter the dust flies again.

Despite delays caused by the record winter, contractors have resumed full-scale operations on Highway 28 through the Incline area. The contract was over 45 per cent complete on April 25.

The 1.1-mile project is being constructed at a cost of $379,959 as a joint venture of H.M. Byars and Nevada Paving, Inc., both of Reno. Bill Wilke is the resident engineer for the Nevada State Highway Department assisted by Joe England.

The project, having a contract length of 80 working days, includes a portion connecting a new stretch of Highway 28 and old Highway 28 on the east and as intersection at the junction of highways 27 and 28.

The finished roadway will consist of a 32' plantmix asphalt surface that includes two 12-foot-wide traffic lanes, each with a four-foot wide shoulder. Engineers hope to complete work by late July.

The new alignment of Highway 28 along Tahoe Boulevard in favor of the present lakeside site was chosen on the basis of two factors. The long range master plan for the north end of the lake calls for an eventual four-lane thoroughfare. The developers in Incline Village donated ample right of way along Tahoe Boulevard for the current construction to be expanded to four lanes in the future.

Upon completion of the current project, the present highway designated as Highway 28 will revert to Washoe County for future improvement and maintenance.

Store Personnel On Buying Trip

RENO - Stuart B. Webb, president and general manager of Gray Reid's department stores, will take part in a buying trip the end of May. Three buyers and Gray Reid's merchandise manager will also attend.

The New York market will feature "Back to school and early fall fashions." The trip will last two weeks.

Leaving with Webb are Walter Welch, merchandise manager, and buyers Mrs. Helen McDonald, Mrs. Anne Gilbert, and Mrs. Jane Dopking.

The north rim of the Grand Canyon was inhabited about A.D. 600.

New Ceramic Aids Medicine

A new ceramic process may make it possible to duplicate the form of human joints in every detail, and thus provide more natural joint action than the metal and other devices now used.

A new manufacturing technique enables scientists to form aluminum oxide into complex shapes while an operation is in progress. A mold of the joint being removed can be made and its ceramic replica fashioned on the spot in the operating room.

The same material may prove to be suitable for implantation in the human mouth to replace the roots of teeth. A small peg on the end of the artificial root would be used to hold a porcelain cap, similar to those used to cap natural teeth.

Ohio State University scientists have implanted the ceramic tooth roots in monkey jaws. If these work successfully, the roots will be implanted in dogs, and eventually tried in humans (in about 18 months, if all goes well). But the non-sterile environment of the mouth may cause greater problems than bone replacement operations.

Ceramic bone substitutes have been found to cause a minimum of biological rejection by the body. Fibrous connective tissue which often forms, walling off bone implants, does not form when ceramic is used. Capillaries have been found to grow into microscopic spaces in the ceramic substitutes, and new bone is deposited directly against ceramic implants.

Aluminum oxide has properties which make it an especially desirable ceramic for implantation. For example, when impregnated with epoxy resin at bearing surfaces and where no tissue attachment is desired, the substance is completely inert.

However, it is difficult to form into even simple shapes. To duplicate the intricate structures found in human bones and joints seemed impossible until a recent discovery at Ohio State made it possible to increase the porosity of the ceramic. Dr. William B. Campbell, of the Department of Ceramic Engineering at Ohio devised the new method, apparently inspired by the discomfort and slight limp he has suffered since three stainless steel pins were placed in his hip in his youth.

He says the ceramic material now being tested shows more promise than the plasters, metals, plastic and silicone rubber substitutes which are on the market now.

Natural attachment of ligaments to the ceramic has not yet been obtained, but the Ohio State researchers hope to achieve this soon. Work has begun on the construction of a complete new joint, modeled directly from a human knee.

Dr. Campbell points out that the adaptation of the ancient art of ceramics to modern day medicine isn't as radical as it may seem. In recent years the skulls of ancient India Indians have been found to contain plates of fired clay, replacing destroyed bone, just as metal plates are used today.

At the rate we are devising replacements for the organs and skeletons of humans, someday we may walk around with more spare parts than original ones.

World's Best Fabrics In Special Show

SACRAMENTO - The world's finest fabrics will be on display at the California Exposition during its Aug. 22 - Sept. 9 State Fair.

Gold medals will be the lure for domestic and foreign exhibitors competing in the International Textile Exposition, and if past records hold up, 90 per cent of the entries will be from abroad.

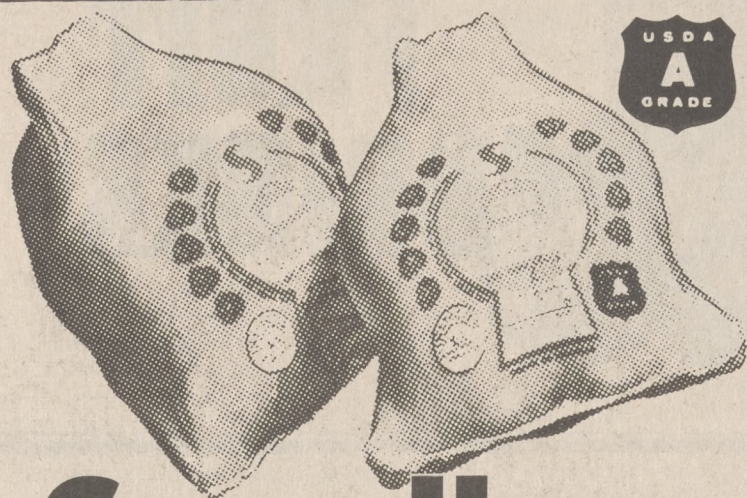

Finland alone submitted more than 100 entries during the 1968 show.

Adding flavor to this year's textile exposition is a new class which will allow exhibitors to submit fabrics with a new finish, new blend or combination of fibers and new basic materials.

Entries will close Aug. 10 in all classes including Apparel Fabrics, Upholstery and Drapery Fabrics, and Rugs, according to exhibit supervisor Edward J. Jynan.

On display will be the finest cottons, nylons, dacrons, orlons, rayons, silks, satins, wools and blend varieties from throughout the world.

The State Fair opens at 5 p.m. Aug. 22 with the Maid of California Pageant scheduled for 8 p.m. Fourteen days of horse racing is planned for Aug. 25 - Sept. 8.

LIGHT AND LUSCIOUS - Cranberries can give a new flavor to those cool and refreshing summer gelatin salads that are a favorite for warm-day luncheons. This special frozen fruit salad can also be served as a light dinner dessert.

Summer Salad

CRANBERRY FROZEN FRUIT SALAD

Makes 6 servings
1 package (3 3/4 ounces) strawberry flavored whipped dessert mix
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup cold milk
1/2 cup cold water
1/2 cup cranberry orange relish
1 cup diced peeled bananas
1/4 cup finely chopped nuts
Combine dessert mix and sugar. Add milk and whip until mixture is very thick. Add cold water and whip for 2 minutes or until mixture is smooth and slightly thickened. Chill 10 minutes. Fold in remaining ingredients. Spoon mixture into 6 individual molds; freeze until firm. Loosen edges with a sharp knife, unmold and serve on a bed of salad greens with mayonnaise and additional cranberry-orange relish, if desired.

CRANBERRY LAYERED SALAD MOLD

(Makes 8 servings)
2 packages (2 tablespoons) unflavored gelatin
2 cups cranberry juice cocktail
1 1/2 cups port wine

1/2 cup cranberry-orange relish
1 cup diced peeled apples
2 packages (3 ounces each) lemon-lime gelatin
2 cups boiling water
1 1/2 cups cold water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1 large avocado, peeled, pitted and mashed
1 package (6 ounces) frozen King crab meat, thawed, drained and flaked
Combine gelatin and 1/2 cup of the cranberry juice; let stand 5 minutes. Stir over low heat until gelatin is dissolved. Add remaining cranberry juice and port wine. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in cranberry-orange relish and apple. Pour mixture into a 2 1/2-quart mold. Gradually beat gelatin mixture into mayonnaise. Chill until mixture thickens slightly. Fold in avocado and crab meat. Pour over first layer in mold. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serve on romaine leaves garnished with avocado slices, crab meat chunks and cherry tomatoes stuffed with cranberry-orange relish.

High Altitude Gardening

By Ronald H. Gustafson
Washoe County Extension Horticulturist

There's nothing like a good selection of annual flowers to add beauty to a yard, accent to a landscape, or to provide a blaze of color to the neighborhood from late spring through the fall.

For the best emphasis, use one type and color of annual in each planting area. Place flowers in beds along the foundation of the home, within areas that compliment the house, or in planters and planter boxes. Since flowers often need a dark or contrasting background to give maximum effectiveness, try planting a flower border in front of shrubs, a wall, a fence, or a house foundation.

Annuals are gaining increasing popularity for edgings along porches, private areas, and foundations because they give beauty to an unusable area with a minimum of effort and care. Annuals make excellent edging plants for either sun or shade. In the sun, try ageratum (dwarf) alyssum, dianthus, dusty miller, marigold (dwarf), mienbergia, petunia, phlox drummond, portulaca, snapdragon (dwarf), verbena, and zinna (dwarf). In the shade, you will have better luck with calandula, begonia, colous, pansy, slavia (dwarf) and vinca.

For a wide choice of planting heights, colors, and textures, I suggest the use of annuals in mixed borders to create a variety of effects.

The background shrubs or fence should be about one and one-half times the mature height of the tallest variety of flowers. Suggestions for mixed borders include ageratum, alyssum balsam, celosia, centarura, cosmos, dusty miller, hellanthus, hollyback, marigold, nicotiana, petuna, salvia, snapdragon, verbena, and zinlia.

Built-in outdoor planters are becoming increasingly popular with architects and contractors as interest areas along porches, walls, patios, and foundations. Annual flowers selected for planters should be free flowering and provide continual color. I recommend marigold (dwarf), petunia (multifloras), salvia, snapdragon (dwarf), verbena, and zinlia (dwarf). A variation of this limited-space planting is the urn or tub, now available in a variety of ceramics, plastics, and redwood. A combination of annuals with taller ones in the center, or annuals with an evergreen shrub or ornamental tree can be quite effective. For this combination, try ageratum, alyssum, begonia, colous, marigold (dwarf), petunia, salvia, snapdragon (half dwarf and dwarf), verbena, and zinlia (miniatures).

Window boxes remain as an important flower display area for many urban people who have limited space and time.

BEACH WORK - Work at Burnt Cedar Beach, near Sand Harbor, to repair damage and erosion from the past six years' storms has gotten approval from Ernest Gregory, chief of the Nevada Department of Environmental Health. "Gregory agreed the work was in conformity with the permit and offered no suggestions on how a better job could be done," W. W. (Wally) White, general manager of the Incline Village General Improvement District, said. Gregory's investigation was called for by Sen. Coe Swobe, who had received reports that there was "dumping of rocks and land fill into the lake." White pointed out the district had obtained all necessary permits and the construction permit was clearly posted on the property. White said, "We are repairing damage due to severe storms. We've already lost several beautiful trees and are trying to save the rest. In no case was there any extension or encroachment on new land."

'Bargain' This Year For Parks, Recreation Permits

SACRAMENTO - The State Department of Parks and Recreation is changing over to selling its annual day-use permits and boat-launching permits on a calendar year basis rather than a fiscal year basis.

As a result, purchasers will get a bargain this year - seven months for the price of six. The permits will go on sale in the parks after June 1 for $5 each, half the price of a full year's permit, and will be good until the end of this year. On Jan. 1, new permits will be sold for the regular full year price of $10 each, and will be good for the entire calendar year of 1970.

The annual day-use permit may be used at all state park units where the regular 75-cent day-use fee is collected. However, the permit may not be used for camping or at state historic units and museums where an entrance or guided tour fee is charged.

The annual boat-launching permit is good for unlimited use of boat launching facilities at applicable state park units, with the exception of Lake El-sinore State Recreation Area in Riverside County.

State Parks and Recreation Director William Penn Mott Jr. said the annual permits are offered as a convenience to those who use state parks regularly for picnicking, fishing, boating or just plain relaxing.

Helium is produced by the radioactive decay of uranium and a few other elements. Alpha particles given off by certain radioactive materials are merely helium nuclei.

Sport Event

SACRAMENTO - Hughes Stadium is preparing for the Sacramento Invitational coming June 21, 1969. Starting time will be 12 noon. Evening events will start at 5:15 p.m.

Dennis Phillips is going to return to Hughes Stadium where in 1966 he set the National Junior College pole vault record at 16'8". He was then competing for San Mateo Junior College.

Tickets will be going on sale shortly at the Breuner's Box Office and Tower Record Stores. Reserved seats will be $4.00. General Admission will be $3.00 and student cardholders, as well as servicemen in uniform will be admitted for $2.00.

LAKE ECHOES

By BETHLE
Sounds emanating from Cal Neva Lodge signal the opening next week. However, the Celebrity Room and the hotel are scheduled for July opening. A Japanese Spectacular apparently will open the Celebrity Room with Candy Hall leading the house band.

Rene and Benny Lassoff were honored guests at a farewell cocktail party given them by the staff of the Lake Tahoe Hotel. The Lassoffs are Las Vegas bound and Benny was presented, among parting gifts, with a snow shovel. Very useful in Las Vegas for sand!

Lois Watson Garrett of Incline Village has been appointed convention coordinator for the Lake Tahoe Hotel at Incline Village.

The Chamberlin's daughter, Pam, writes from the Isle of Man that she plans to visit Cannon relatives of her father's soon. She has also found a delightful school which she may attend. A tie pin was received by her father and a crum-ber set by her mother both with the symbol of the Isle, three legs in a circle.

St. Francis of Assisi Guild elected new officers at a meeting at the Parish House last week. Marilyn Fitzgerald is the new president; Martha Bernard, vice president; Ann Conjemi, secretary; Bernie Bertonoli, treasurer, will be installed at the North Shore Club on June 12.

Women of the Guild are planning a reception for the dedication of the church June 8 at which Bishop Dwyer of Oregon and Bishop Green of Reno will be present. A dinner at the Crystal Bay Club will follow dedication ceremonies.

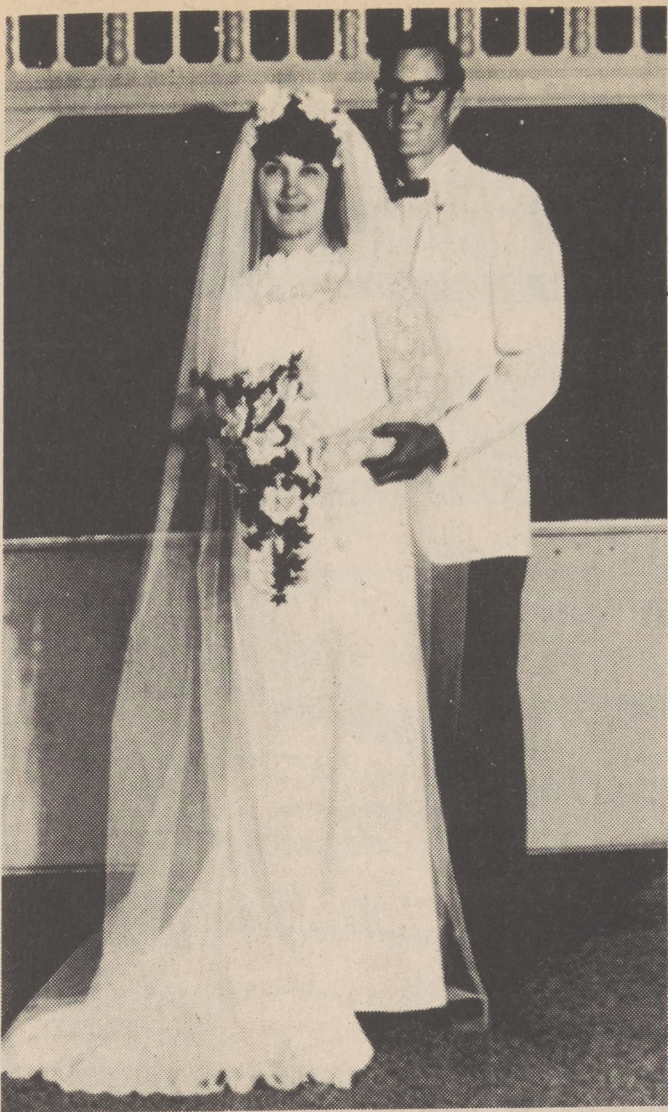

Velva Herman of Incline Village visited her mother, Mabel Woodall, at Sturgeon Point, near Toronto, Canada. From there she went to New York where husband, Lenny, joined her. The Hermans visited his sister, Mrs. Daniel Glickman, and daughters, Gail, and Roshe and family, friends and relatives in Manhattan and Philadelphia and saw Don Rickles at the Westbury Circus.

Enplaning back to Tahoe with the Hermans were longtime friends whom they also visited in New York, Dora and Al Schwartz.

First Lt. John E. Olinghouse is among 632 outstanding supply officers of the year named by the Air Force. He is base equipment management officer at Kindly AFB, Bermuda. Bermuda Skyline and the Oklahoma City Journal both carried the story. However, Margaret still hasn't received the long awaited picture.

MR. AND MRS. HARRY MCINTIRE III
... the former Kathryn Weeldreyer

Kathy Weeldreyer Becomes Bride Of Harry McIntire

Kathryn I. Weeldreyer became the bride of Harry F. McIntire III in a wedding ceremony solemnized at the First Baptist Church at Cottage Grove, Ore. The Rev. H.D. Barkman officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Weeldreyer of Cottage Grove. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Harry McIntire II of Tahoe Vista.

Miss Weeldreyer was given in marriage by her father. For her wedding she selected a white floor-length gown of French crepe and re-embroidered Alencon lace. The gown was fashioned with long lace sleeves, chapel train and Grecian bow. A tiara of flowers held her full-length veil.

She carried a handkerchief that had belonged to her great-grandmother and wore an heirloom pendant watch, a gift from the groom.

Bridal attendants were Jerrie Huston, maid of honor; and Judy Holste and Cathy McIntire, the groom's sister. The bridesmaids wore floor-length gowns of pink floral silk organza and carried bouquets of gardenias.

The bride's brother, Thomas Weeldreyer was best man. Ushers were Bill Helfenstein, Leon Vargas and Phil Weeldreyer.

The church and reception hall were decorated with candelabras and spring flowers and feature a table holding the wedding cake which was decorated by Clara Duncan using the ornaments from the bride's parents wedding cake.

Guests at the reception were greeted by Mrs. Weeldreyer who was wearing a gown of green pole de sole, and Mrs. McIntire who selected a gown of blue raw silk for the occasion.

Debbie Wiscarson and Cindy Wiscarson were in charge of the groom's cake and rice packets and Mrs. H. H. Weeldreyer presided at the guest book.

Grandmothers, Mrs. H. H. Weeldreyer and Mrs. Curtis Hansen served refreshments with the assistance of Mrs. Laurence Minton, Mrs. Eli Keeran, Mrs. William Swift, Mrs. William Manbeck, and Mrs. N. K. Kowalko.

An honored guest at the wedding and reception was Mrs. Ida Terveen, Cottage Grove, the bride's 90-year-old great aunt.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. McIntire Jr. hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Village Green Hotel for the wedding party.

The new Mrs. McIntire is a senior at Oregon State University.

For her going away outfit, the bride designed and created her own ensemble which included a white dress with blue embroidered lace trim.

The new Mrs. McIntire is a senior at Oregon State University. The groom, also a senior at Oregon State, will graduate in forestry. The newlyweds are making their home in Corvallis, Ore., following a honeymoon trip to Lake Tahoe and San Francisco.

Laxalt Will Be Incline Speaker

Gov. Paul Laxalt will be principal speaker at Incline High's graduation ceremonies Monday, June 9.

Local schools begin summer vacation June 6. School then resumes Sept. 2.

Tennis School Approved

Construction of tennis courts and a tennis school at Incline Village by a nationally known tennis instructor has been recommended for approval by Nevada Regional Planning Commission.

The commission last week approved a special use permit allowing tennis professional Dennis Van der Meer to establish the school and courts on Tahoe Boulevard, between Southwood and Country Club boulevards.

Attorney Paul Bible, introducing Vander Meer to the commission, noted the professional had an outstanding record as a tennis educator, including being voted "The Outstanding Tennis Educator in the United States for 1968" by the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association.

Van der Meer said the objectives of his school were three-fold: develop tennis teachers, teach youngsters and make tennis courts available to the public.

NEW IDEAS FOR YOUR HOME

Tips on Making Home Projects Easier

The biggest mistake made in painting a kitchen is to fail to wash off all grease and dirt, which later may bleed through the paint.

In placing a long ladder against the size of the house, the distance between the foot of the ladder and the foundation of the house should be one-fourth the length of the ladder.

Painting a wooden ladder will hide defects that may occur at a later time. If a finish is desired, use a clear wood preservative.

When you decide to paint the ceiling of a room without doing the walls at the same time, remember that, after the ceiling is done, the walls may suddenly look seedy.

In attaching a shelf to a hollow-core door, drive the screws into the solid wood around the edges of the door if possible. If this isn't practical, use special fasteners made for such doors.

Abundant circulation under wooden porches will prevent or at least delay decay and other deterioration.

Moisture can be prevented from coming up from the soil in a crawl space by putting down roll roofing material or polyethylene, overlapping the edges a few inches and taping or cementing them. This treatment stops at its source the moisture vapor that often is the cause of condensation in basementless houses.

Although extremely durable indoors, varnish used on exterior materials rarely lasts as long as a coat of good quality exterior paint, especially when the surface is exposed to the sun and rain.

Dry lumber has better nail-holding capacity, shrinks and warps less and is safer from decay than green lumber.

Use caution in handling wood preservatives; many of them are poisonous and some are flammable.

In making bookshelves, consider placing a strip of wood about 2 inches high along the back edge of each shelf. The strips will keep the books from touching the wall.

Small screen patches are available in hardware stores. Each patch has tiny hooded ends that make it easy to attach to the screen.

Wood stain is intended for use on raw wood or work from which the old finish has been removed; it is not meant for changing the color of the old finish.

In filing or regrinding the tip of a screwdriver, be sure to file it straight across and not slightly rounded at the ends.

When using a plunger, known as the "plumber's friend," be sure there is enough water in the sink to cover the entire suction cup.

To prevent the top ends of an exterior ladder from marring the finish of a wall, attach pieces of foam rubber to the ladder ends.

Some hardware and paint stores sell rollers especially made for painting round objects.

Mohair, short-nap rollers are excellent for use with enamels; longer naps are better for flat paints to be applied to smooth surfaces.

A pipe cleaner makes a handy applicator for a touch-up paint job.

Be sure to store left-over pesticides and other chemicals in a locked cabinet.

Since fuse boxes usually must be located in the dark, it's a good idea to paint them with a luminescent or white paint.

Wooden moldings can dress up a flush door.

Always paint in a dry area towards a wet one, overlapping slightly.

In painting a room, do the ceiling first, the walls next, the woodwork and trim last.

When painting while standing on a plank set between the rungs of two ladders—or anything similar—the paint can should always be set behind you.

Shellac was first brought to Europe from Asia by Marco Polo.

If a skin forms on the top of paint that hasn't been used for a long time, remove it before mixing the paint.

Some hardware stores carry thin metal or wooden wedges that can be driven into the top end of a wooden hammer handle that has come loose.

Don't use a screwdriver blade to break the hardened paint around the sash of a stuck window. A putty knife, held as flat as possible against the sash, will work better and, more important, leave no gouges in the wood.

Sanding the interior of a cedar closet every year or so will revitalize its mothproofing qualities.

Tempered hardboard, usually used outdoors, can be given a coat of primer and a coat of house paint when installed vertically; primer and deck enamel when used horizontally.

Little potted plants set out on a paved terrace provide variety and interest and can be moved anytime you want to change things around.

When having a house built on the basis of getting the most for your money, your first decision should be to provide full insulation.

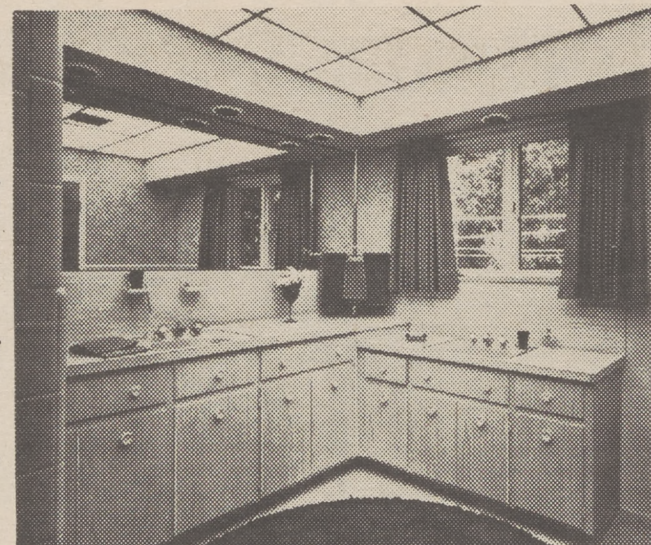

A hammering noise in a pipe can indicate the need for a sealed air chamber, a kind of shock absorber that eliminates the danger of a break and stops the noise.

A silver beige finish can be obtained by applying aluminum paint, immediately wiping it and waiting at least 24 hours. The top coat should be one of the clear finishes.

Lint and pet hair on furniture can usually be picked up easily with a small piece of foam rubber.

The wood in a cedar closet should be sanded every year or so to reopen the pores. It should never be given any kind of finish.

When it is the proper size and has been installed properly, an attic fan can change the air in an average-sized house in two minutes.

MODERN BATHROOM features "his and her" lavatories scaled to height, wide countertops, plenty of storage space and casement window with vinyl sheathing over wood cores.

Fancier Bathrooms

Bathrooms have become the "new frontier" in home improvement and remodeling.

A comprehensive survey by Cornell University's Center for Housing and Environmental Studies estimated two years ago that more than 16 million bathrooms in the country (including many in "modern" homes) were substandard in terms of facilities, space, storage and decor.

Since then, bathrooms have received considerable attention from designers, architects and builders. The result has been bathroom innovations ranging from wall murals and marble statuary to indoor lily ponds and outdoor patios.

In the process, there have been a number of practical improvements in facilities and designs which are well worth considering if you are building a home or remodeling the bathroom. Among them are:

Compartmentalized toilet, tub and shower facilities, which permit the bathroom to be used by more than one person at the same time while maintaining the privacy of each.

Double lavatories, some of them scaled to his-and-her proportions. Height of the sink and countertop space is determined by the height of the person who will use the lavatories.

Wide countertops (with washable finishes) and built-in storage cabinets underneath.

Wall-hung toilets, which are easier to clean around than floor-mounted units.

Double medicine cabinets. Convenient single-spigot faucets.

Recessed lighting over countertops and around mirrors.

Low-maintenance wall and floor coverings which resist moisture and humidity and can be washed clean.

Use of window styles which give the bathroom maximum light, ventilation and ease of operation. Casements are recommended by one leading window manufacturer (Andersen) for use over bathroom countertops and other hard-to-reach areas, because they can be easily operated without stretching. For low-maintenance, casements are available with a rigid vinyl sheathing over preservative-treated wood cores which does not require painting. Welded insulating glass, standard with these units, eliminates the need for storm sash.

Possibly the most beautiful window units available, bows (which have a graceful outward curve) and bays (which are straight in the center and angled at each end) have long been popular for living rooms in both traditional and contemporary houses. Now, imaginative homeowners are recognizing their advantages for any room that would benefit from a distinctive window treatment, natural light and a view.

Kitchens, for example, are often shortchanged when it comes to window beauty and visibility. A wide-expanse bow or bay window, readily available at local lumber dealers in pre-assembled stock units of ponderosa pine, becomes a decorative bonus for the room and a boon for the housewife who spends much of her time there and would enjoy a sunny view of the outdoors.

NEW DESIGNER - Biszant Interiors have added a new interior designer, Walt Anderson, to assist customers in selecting just the right items for the decor or redecorating any room in their home. He is welcomed to the Biszant staff by Jill Mathia, manager of the establishment, and Betty Hendricksen, Biszant Interiors is located on Highway 50 and Pioneer Trail.

Bow or Bay Windows Add Air of Spaciousness

Is there a room in your house that needs a new decorative highlight, a sense of spaciousness, wide visibility, and lots of sunlight and air? A wood bow or bay window could be the answer.

Possibly the most beautiful window units available, bows (which have a graceful outward curve) and bays (which are straight in the center and angled at each end) have long been popular for living rooms in both traditional and contemporary houses. Now, imaginative homeowners are recognizing their advantages for any room that would benefit from a distinctive window treatment, natural light and a view.

Recreation Room Good Investment

If your house doesn't have a recreation room, chances are you're planning one soon.

Surveys show that recreation rooms are among the first additions to be made in a house. The extra facilities are generally necessitated by a growing family. Both parents and children soon see the need for a room where youngsters can play and entertain their friends without interrupting the rest of the family. After children's hours, the rec room is also an ideal place for informal adult entertainment.

Setting up a recreation room is not difficult. The basement, if you have one, is a logical place. With a good clean-up, organization of storage facilities, and the right materials, you can transform the drab basement into an attractive play-and-party room.

Almost by definition, a recreation room has certain requirements. It should be attractive, large enough for sizeable gatherings, and easy to maintain. Fabrics and wall and floor coverings should be sturdy and washable. Facilities for food preparation and serving are also a good idea.

Here are some suggestions:

1. Take advantage of the attractive, low-maintenance building materials now on the market. For example, hardboard wall paneling is available in a wide range of beautiful finishes including rich-looking woodgrains, decorator colors, varied patterns, and unusual textures such as cane, burlap, basket weave and leather. The panels are easily applied with nails or easy-to-use adhesive to wood furring strips attached to the existing wall.
2. Use easy-to-clean draperies and furniture slip covers—preferably the kind you can throw in the washing machine often.
3. Provide adequate storage space for games, hobby equipment, and the like. One idea is to install some perforated hardboard wall panels. These have perforations for hooks from which to hang a variety of items, and brackets on which to mount shelves.
4. Provide a few kitchen facilities if possible: a small-capacity refrigerator (to keep beverages and ice on hand), a small range or hotplate to heat food.

They resist dents, mars and scuffs, and can be sponged clean. Resilient floor tiles or even carpet tiles are ideal for "rec" room use. Some of these floorings also provide a measure of sound control.

2. Use easy-to-clean draperies and furniture slip covers—preferably the kind you can throw in the washing machine often.

3. Provide adequate storage space for games, hobby equipment, and the like. One idea is to install some perforated hardboard wall panels. These have perforations for hooks from which to hang a variety of items, and brackets on which to mount shelves.

Leisure Living in the Laundry

Why not be tuned-in to leisure living in the laundry? With appliances programmed to specific fabric needs, for speed, washing action and temperature—all with the flick of one button—there's still time for relaxation between and during washing-drying cycles.

In keeping with this banishment of wash-day blues—it's time to decorate the laundry room accordingly—with bright colors and accessories. Start with a tweed carpet as attractive as it is practical—such as one of Herculan olefin fiber—a perfect choice since this fiber is moisture and stain resistant, mildew-proof and highly durable. Also remember that carpeting muffles the annoying sounds of appliances in operation.

Now go on to select a handsome rattan chaise—for those precious minutes to thumb through a magazine, catch-up with long overdue phone calls, or even provide a place for forty winks. The urethane foam mattress is as modern as the carpet fiber and appliances in this setting. It is perfectly at home in a laundry room since it is not affected by dampness or heat and will always retain its clean, crisp lines.

Bringing in a bit of art can be fun too—as well as bright throw-pillows, plants and soft music. It all creates a welcome respite—before dashing off to the next chore on a busy agenda.

RECREATION ROOM gets the bold treatment here, with unusual wallpaper and acoustical ceiling tiles with a deepy-embossed, fused-plastic finish.

These Wonders Save Work, Time, Your Looks

Thrifty Way to Rout Those Smears, Scuffs

Among the most blatant threats to your housekeeping reputation are fingerprint smudges. They settle in all the most obvious places such as around doorknobs and light switches, the side panels of doors and screens. And the grubby smudges multiply at an unbelievable rate when there are children.

To keep these reminders of content comings and goings under control, rely on washing soda, an inexpensive and versatile cleaner. A solution of three tablespoons of the washing soda to the basin of warm water sponged over the soiled surface eliminates the evidence in record time. No need to keep repeating the process before you conquer the grime, for soda is particularly effective at dissolving grease-based soil, and your skin, even at the fingertips, secretes oil.

Another smudge-prone area is the TV screen. While doing yeoman duty keeping small fry amused, it gets thoroughly fingerprinted, across the screen and around the dials.

Windows take similar punishment, especially on rainy days, when children and perhaps the dog turn look-outs. Here, in addition to fingerprints, you may have nose prints, too.

You'll find the washing soda solution takes care of both viewing areas . . . TV screen and the windows. Just polish them dry after rinsing.

Another source of disfigurement is a blight of scuff marks along the baseboards. You'll find them, also, on the lower panels of doors where children have accompanied knob turning with a kick assist. Even these nasty black scars will respond to a swab with washing soda.

Kitchen Chaos? Don't Despair! Here's Help

Lucky you! Your kitchen is being remodeled and soon you'll be the proud possessor of the most elegant kitchen on the block.

But elegance doesn't happen in a day, and meanwhile the area that used to be your kitchen is a large shambles. No refrigerator, no stove, not even a kitchen sink. How do you get your family fed for a week without going broke at the local restaurant?

Here's the answer: a supply of canned foods, stacks of disposable paper tableware, an electric coffee pot and an electric aluminum skillet. Now you can turn out tasty, nutritious meals for the whole family even if you're cooking on top of the ping-pong table.

One-dish meals are the simplest to prepare and the easiest to clean up after. A juicy frankfurter and vegetable dish like the "No-Kitchen Cookup" is just heated in the skillet and neatly served in plastic-coated paper bowls, one of the newest additions to the lines of disposable paper tableware which have lightened the work load for so many.

Paperware, in colorful matching designs as well as pastels and glistening white, brightens what could be dreary meal-times during the remodeling period. And they remove the drudgery of dishwashing—a chore at any time, but a real challenge when the kitchen sink has been disconnected!

Using disposable paperware and plastic utensils means that you only wipe out the non-stick skillet with a damp cloth and rinse out the coffee maker. Everything else is tossed, not washed.

EASY ON THE COOK. A frankfurter and vegetable cookup, with sliced pound cake laced with caramel nut sauce for dessert, can be prepared and served in the front hall, if you're kitchenless during remodeling. Paperware makes dining comfortable and clean-up easy.

Life will be easier, of course, if your old refrigerator can be moved to another room and temporarily plugged in, so that you have fresh dairy products. Scrambled eggs for breakfast or hamburgers for lunch are no problem for an electric skillet; in fact, even soup can be heated in it.

You may not perform gourmet miracles when your kitchen is temporarily indisposed, but it's very possible to feed everyone pleasantly and well without relying on your neighbor's facilities or the pizza palace down the road.

"THE NO KITCHEN COOKUP"
1 can (12 ounces) frankfurters
2 cans (1 pound each) barbecue beans
1 can (12 ounces) whole kernel corn
1 can (14½ ounces) baby sliced tomatoes
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
Drain frankfurters and slice into 1-inch pieces. Combine with remaining ingredients in an electric skillet set at 300° F.

BUTTERSCOTCH DESSERT QUICKIE
8 slices pound cake
½ cup butterscotch sauce
¼ cup slivered almonds
Place 2 slices of pound cake on 4 paper plates. Top cake with sauce and sprinkle with almonds. Makes 4 servings.

Silicone Rubber Sealer Repairs Cracked Refrigerator Gaskets

A cracked or split refrigerator gasket can be permanently repaired in minutes, and at quite a savings, by using clear, silicone rubber sealant.

The sealant, made by Dow Corning, can be squeezed into the gasket and then molded to the contours of the door. The refrigerator door should then be shut to allow the rubber to dry; usually about one hour.

Refrigerator temperatures will have no effect on silicone rubber sealant which can stand temperature variances from -70° up to 500°.

The silicone rubber sealant is also effective for sealing leaking plumbing fixtures or auto windshields. It can be purchased at most hardware stores.

When soldering, do not use an acid flux on an electrical joint; use a resin flux.

In making a doghouse, the height is determined by the height of the dog in a sitting position.

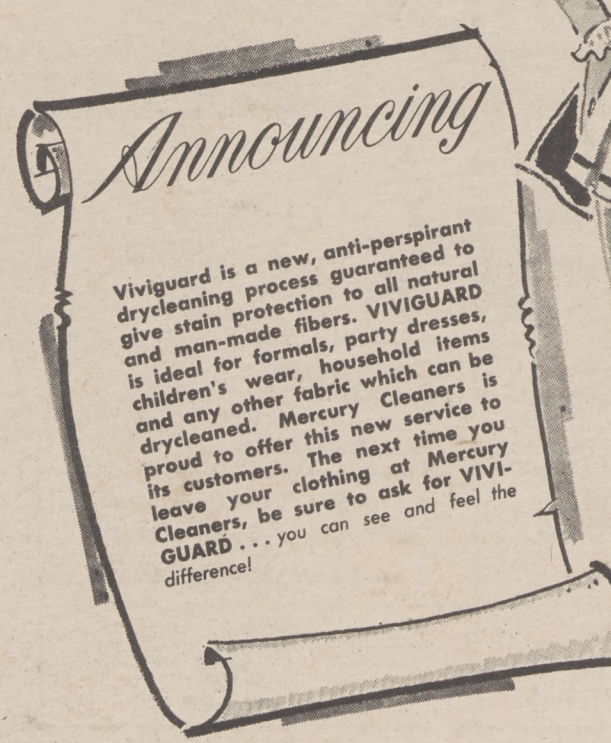

Hammering nails into gypsum wallboard calls for the use of a special hammer with a slightly rounded face.

Make Your Own Louvered Fence

Before spending time, money and energy on the construction of a fence, check local building codes to determine what restrictions, if any, there are on the sizes and types permitted. This is especially important if the fence is to enclose a pool or will be erected on a property line.

The instructions to follow are for a louvered fence 8' long and 6' high. It should be made of a weather-resistant lumber, such as redwood, and can be used as a windbreak or patio divider as well as a fence.

1. Dig holes 2 feet deep with centers 7' 8 3/4" apart on level or nearly level ground.

2. Set the 8 foot long, 4" x 4" posts (A) vertically in the holes and tamp 10 inches of soil firmly around them. (Use 8 foot long top rail to measure spacing of posts so that outside edges of them are 8 feet apart.)

3. With the posts firmly in place, pour concrete into the remaining depth around the posts and plumb the posts with a carpenter's level. Be sure that the tops of the posts are the same height by laying the 8-foot rail across them and checking levelness with a carpenter's level. Trim if necessary after allowing concrete to set 48 hours.

4. Nail 8 foot long 2 x 4 top rail (B) to tops of posts using non-corroding 16 d nails. Then approximately 1-inch above ground level toenail with 8 d non-corroding nails the bottom rail (C) between the posts allowing 5' 9" for insertion of louvers of this length between the horizontal rails.

5. To mark for louver and spacer block placement, set the first louver against one post so that the outside corners of the louver board are flush with the edges of the rails. Mark the first lines on the rails where the first louver will be placed. These marks also indicate where the first adjacent spacer blocks will be placed. (Total number of 1" x 6" x 69" louvers will be 19. The final partial louver will be approximately 1" x 1-5/8" x 69".)

6. The net width of spacer block material should measure 1-5/8". To mass produce spacer blocks, cut one spacer block to use as a pattern. To do this, lay a length of spacer block material flat alongside the first full length line you drew for the first louver. Where the spacer block material overlaps each side of the rail, scribe the underside of the spacer block material. Saw along these marks and you have a pattern for cutting the approximately 38 spacer blocks.

7. Nail first spacer blocks to top and bottom rails adjacent to the lines for the end louver. Then nail the louver to these first blocks. After the first louver is secure, repeat nailing-in of blocks and louvers until all louvers are in place. Special end spacer blocks can be measured and inserted between end louvers and posts.

NOTE: If more than one 8 foot section is desired, shorten top rails to permit two rails to meet at the top of common posts.

Potted Plants For Outdoors

You can supplement your outdoor garden with portable plantings. Colorful flowering and foliage plants, in porous clay containers, make attractive and "weedless" assets to permanent landscaping.

There are many effective ways of using pot plants outdoors. For maximum decorative mileage, here are a few suggestions:

Convert a sun-drenched patio or terrace into a cactus garden. Cactus plants grow in all sizes and shapes and make interesting and unusual arrangements. Add matching saucers to the clay-potted plants for a finished look. And remember, cactus plants love sun and sandy soil kept on the dry side.

Hanging baskets or plants in pot rings do wonders for bare stretches of garage wall or fencing. If it's a bright sun area, try geraniums or marigolds. For shade, fuchsias or tuberous begonias will provide the color.

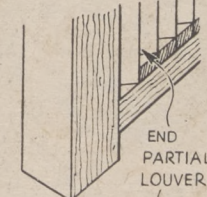

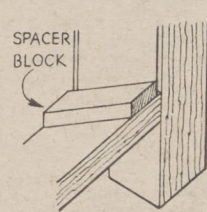

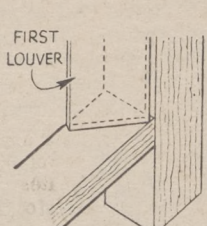

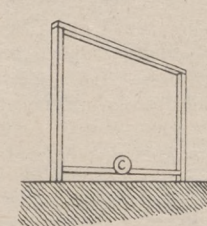

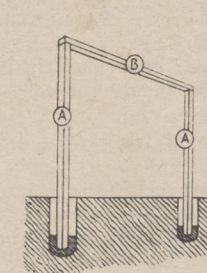

Postlamps or mailboxes look best when their bases are encircled by pots of flowers. Red and pink geraniums make a striking combination. To give the plants more height, set them on inverted clay pots or saucers. Line the steps to your front door with a few large pots of flowers. Start in early spring with flowering bulbs, then switch to inexpensive annuals like petunias or cinerarias. For fall display, select hardy chrysanthemums. All these flowering plants are grown and sold in porous clay pots in sizes up to 8 and 10 inches.

Turn unsightly tree stumps into picturesque assets by using them as pedestals for large clay pots of flowers or foliage.

If you have a problem lawn area, turn it into a trouble-free pebble garden. Remove an inch or two of the soil, fill in with a layer of pebbles, and "plant" the surface with a container garden.

Growing a selection of potted herbs in a kitchen window box will give you a fresh "perk-up" for summer meals and drinks. Parsley, chives, basil, tarragon and mint all do well in small 3 or 4-inch clay pots.

Families Demand More Of Newer and Better

By ANDY LANG
The American home owners' relentless quest for the amenities that constitute good living has reached new heights.

With their standard of living already higher than that of any civilization in history, they continually seek more of the better products that the industrial and technological age of today produces in an endless stream.

The result? They spent more than $12 billion in 1968 for the improvement and upkeep of their owner-occupied, single-family homes, a figure that is likely to move up a couple of billion dollars this year. Whether they hire contractors to perform the work or do-it-themselves, the home owners are constantly adding and altering in order to gain more livable space, transform drab areas into glamour spots and utilize the newer materials that offer more attractiveness and less maintenance.

Liberalization of regulations covering government-insured loans for remodeling has enabled home owners to make changes that otherwise might be indefinitely postponed.

Surveys show that about 54 per cent of the money is spent for interior work, with 16 per cent involving kitchens, 7 per cent bathrooms, 24 per cent other rooms, and 7 per cent general interior activity. While no breakdown of the exterior expenditures is readily available, the money goes for a wide variety of projects, including painting, roofing, siding and such things as patios, swimming pools and dormers.

The urge to remodel is intensified as the construction costs of new houses continue to rise. While it is true that these new houses are gobbled up as fast as they can be built, it is equally true that hundreds of thousands of families decide to hang on to the old homesteads because of the economic factor. This is especially the case among the owners of homes in the $12,000 to $20,000 range. The owner of such a home—costing $15,000, let us say—finds that by spending a few thousand dollars on modernizing, he can obtain some of the goodies otherwise obtainable only in a house costing $28,000 or more.

The favorite areas for gaining more habitable space are the attic and the basement. Each has the same big advantage: the space is already there; it need only be finished to make it livable. Generally, the attic gets the call when the family needs for more bedrooms. The basement is usually selected for expansion when a recreation area is wanted. In the attic, the problem is temperature control, accomplished by adequate insulation and sufficient ventilation. In the basement, it's moisture control, which can be fairly simple or very difficult or somewhere in between.

Enclosing a patio, usually at the rear of a house, is becoming more and more popular in line with the rising trend toward indoor-outdoor living, even when the property is of modest size. Builders report that a house will sell faster, other things being equal, when there is some kind of terrace flooring at the rear, even when the cost is a little more. The prospective purchaser apparently looks ahead to the day when he will build an enclosure or, at the very least, a roof.

New homes or old, the demand for more storage space is constant. Why don't builders satisfy this demand in moderately priced houses? It's usually a matter of economics. Adding more closets, for instance, either reduces the size of the rooms—and home buyers these days want spacious rooms—or adds to the square footage of the house, which means a higher initial cost. The wise home owner is discovering that there are many unused places that can be utilized. A shelf can be added to a closet above the present one; a shoe tray on casters can be used under a bed; decorative shelves can be placed in corners; shelves can be placed on the insides of doors; and walls can be partly opened for built-in shelves.

Weatherstripping — Factory-applied to assure tight, efficient seal against air seepage and resultant heat loss, while retaining ease of operation. Cleaning ease—Most window styles are now obtainable with pivot or lift-out sash which permits both sides of the glass to be cleaned easily and safely from inside the house.

Removable grilles—These snap into place over the inside glass surface to give an attractive small-pane appearance, and snap out for easy window washing. Removable grilles allow all windows, including those with divided-light appearance, to be cleaned easily and safely.

Hardware—Metal and plastic hardware and an efficient system of counter-balances allow wood windows to be operated smoothly and easily and opened to any desired height or degree.

Science and technology will get a lot of hurrahs for putting a man on the moon. But there also ought to be a chorus of cheers from home-owners whose upkeep chores have been lessened by scientifically improved building materials.

One example is the modern wood window. New techniques used to produce windows have made these units more durable, more efficient and easier to operate than ever before. Much of the window care that used to be required has been lessened or eliminated.

Among the new low-maintenance features are:

Insulating glass—available in all window styles. Its use eliminates the need for storm sash (especially important for bow and bay units which previously required custom-made storm windows) and cuts by half the number of glass surfaces to be washed. Insulating glass is considered the most effective safeguard against heat loss and condensation.

Weatherstripping — Factory-applied to assure tight, efficient seal against air seepage and resultant heat loss, while retaining ease of operation.

Cleaning ease—Most window styles are now obtainable with pivot or lift-out sash which permits both sides of the glass to be cleaned easily and safely from inside the house.

Removable grilles—These snap into place over the inside glass surface to give an attractive small-pane appearance, and snap out for easy window washing. Removable grilles allow all windows, including those with divided-light appearance, to be cleaned easily and safely.

Hardware—Metal and plastic hardware and an efficient system of counter-balances allow wood windows to be operated smoothly and easily and opened to any desired height or degree.

Re-Roofing? Don't Overlook Color & Design Potential

Planning to reroof this year? Remember that modern roofing materials offer advantages that didn't exist when the original roof was installed.

- Shingle styles and colors are more varied.
- Roofing material is designed for longer wear and less maintenance.
- Shingles have increased fire and wind resistance.

As the single largest expense of the house, the roof has great color and design potential that shouldn't be ignored. Color-keyed roofing can individualize your home, set the mood for total house appearance, add dramatic visual impact, reflect the site and surroundings, even play down architectural defects.

Building Tips For Patio

Probably no home-improvement project has such wide appeal as installing an outdoor patio. It can add much to family (and guests') pleasure during the pleasant outdoorsy months.

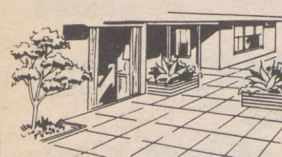

The handyman householder or professional has the choice of many building materials. Slender concrete patio block is available in sizes and colors that lend themselves to many pattern combinations. A mixture of sizes achieve a flagstone effect, while units in different colors create a checkerboard pattern.

In installing a patio, its boundaries are marked off and the soil is excavated to a depth that will accommodate a 2-inch layer of sand with the concrete blocks laid on top.

With patios abutting the house, a slope of about 1 inch per 15 feet will assure proper rain run-off. Some installers lay blocks on edge around the patio boundaries before leveling off the sand and laying the blocks in a preplanned pattern, starting from one corner. When finished, loose sand is sprinkled over the surface and swept into the cracks.

The familiar 8 by 16 inch concrete masonry units are recommended for building a simple outdoor fireplace, or the concrete mason contractor can employ his skill in creating a more elaborate one.

Decorate With Photos For Fun Family Gallery

The family collection of portrait and school photographs is an important decorating asset. These favorite pictures can be proudly displayed by home-makers in most any place in the house. And each display adds a certain charm, a personal note to the room in which it is located.

Although there are no hard-and-fast decorating rules for placing photographs in the home, there are eight areas most frequently chosen by families. If you've been looking for an ideal location in the house to hang your portrait gallery, you might consider one of these popular places:

1. Library: In a bookcase or shelf unit, a gallery of portraits can be intermingled with books, objets d'art, and other pictures. These groupings are particularly flexible with the new shelves that have grown in popularity over the last few years. The framed portraits might be hung on the wall between two shelves, propped in a standing frame atop a shelf, or grouped on a plain wall alongside the bookcase.

2. Family or Leisure Room: Framed simply, school and portrait photographs can be hung on a bare wall in this popular room. This is a good place to group photographs of the children taken over a period of many years — the arrangement will form a meaningful growth record.
3. Bedroom: Portraits are traditionally displayed in this room. Whether one or several photographs are to be used for decoration, follow the new design trends by hanging the pictures on the wall. This helps keep tabletops free of clutter.
4. Guest Room: Portraits and family photographs add a special note of welcome in this room. This is a good place to show off the pictures of children or grand-children.

5. Hallway or Foyer: A family gallery hung along the wall of this area forms a special greeting to all visitors. The portraits become, in effect, an introduction to the family that resides in this home.

6. Stairway: Portrait photographs, intermixed with prints or other favored art works, can turn this oft-neglected place into an attractive area.

7. Dining Room: Only recently have designers begun to plan imaginative decors for this room, using such accessories as art objects and photographs. One very large color portrait of the man of the household can add a very striking note to a setting. Here, arrangements should be undervalued — one portrait often looks better than several in a gallery display.

play.

8. Living Room: A symmetrical grouping of only portrait photographs . . . all framed elegantly to blend with the furniture in the room, is an impressive sight when centered above a couch or buffet. This decorating idea is borrowed straight from former centuries, when the wealthy aristocrats would place the oil portraits of their ancestors in the most important spot in the mansion or chateau.

Every house has a nook, cranny or large bare wall which might boast a family gallery display. Although most designers frown on tabletop clutter, some framed portraits can be strategically placed on cabinets or bookcase shelves. Wherever you choose to hang your photograph collection, be sure to plan the arrangement so that it becomes part of the room decor.

WRAP-AROUND GALLERY of family portrait photographs graces the walls of a guest bedroom. Favorite photos in this room give a warm welcome to visitors. Furniture by Kroehler.

Keep Remodeled Kitchen In Character with Home

If and when you make plans to remodel your kitchen, keep in mind that although it has become one of the showplaces of the American home, the kitchen is, nevertheless, an action center and therefore commands the most sophisticated attention to detail.

Since you want an efficient, well-designed and quality-constructed kitchen, you may have some qualms about the cost. To help you estimate the expense, here's a rule of thumb: The cost of remodeling existing space is approximately $12 a square foot. This varies, naturally, depending on your individual selections. It is estimated that a kitchen renovation will increase the value of your property about 50 per cent of the remodeling cost.

If you are investing a major share of your budget in this room, or are making an important addition, it may pay you to seek the services of a special kitchen planner or an architect. Your local utility company can give you information about the latest equipment.

Here are some tips on how to proceed:

Make a list of what pleases and what annoys you about your present kitchen. Note all of your kitchen activities; analyze your work patterns. Itemize the things you definitely want to include—a wall or desk phone, planning center, intercom or shelf for cookbooks. Keep a file of your ideas and include pictures from newspapers and magazines of kitchens whose plans have appealed to you. List the major appliances you want, with the exact measurements of each taken from specification sheets obtained from your appliance dealer. Read advertisements of new equipment and articles that describe the latest features so that your choices will be made from full knowledge.

The big news in ranges is self-cleaning ovens, and they have become exceptionally popular. According to a survey conducted recently among 1,800 garden apartment residents in five major American cities, 62 per cent were willing to pay $3 a month more for a self-cleaning oven.

DIFFERENT METHODS

Two different systems for self-cleaning ovens have been developed by gas range makers. One process involves moving a lever-latch and setting a dial to activate the cleaning cycle. In three hours or less, high heat disintegrates stubborn spatter, spills and grime to leave the combination oven-a n d-broiler cleaner than the homemaker could get it manually. Messy scrubbing and caustics that punish the hands are done away with. The cost in fuel is less than 5 cents per cycle. Under the other method, the oven simply stays clean, constantly going through the cleaning process at normal cooking temperatures. This is possible because a chemical catalyst is mixed into the porcelain enamel coating of the oven walls.

These modern self-cleaning models incorporate other special features, such as low-temperature oven control, thermostat top-burner, waist-high infra-red broilers, portable grids, cook-hold or delay-cook-series and automatic meat thermometers.

USE COLOR WISELY Some of the newest kitchens, equipped with gas self-cleaning ranges of antique gold, avocado and coppertone, are enlivened further by the imaginative use of brilliant hues. Remember, however, that since the kitchen is usually a small room, it will look more unified if you keep the colors in fairly large blocks.

Decorators Swap Ideas About Home Furnishings

How do professional interior decorators think? Is it strictly "off the top of the head" or must their soaring imaginations remain within disciplined flight patterns?

An inside glimpse of the process is provided by the following taped "brainstorming" session of a group of decorators. They were assembled at the Armstrong Design and Display Studio in Lancaster, Pa., to be brainstormed for whatever ideas they could contribute to color selection. The crossfire was moderated by the studio's supervisor of interior design, Margaret Gordon Dana.

Moderator: Is anyone here willing to put on a crusade for bright colors? Is that where decorating is going?

Decorator 1: I'd sooner work with bright colors than subdued colors, but maybe that's an individual thing.

Decorator 2: No, I think it's the coming trend, though often I like one or two rooms I'm decorating to be in light colors. It differentiates the psychology of rooms—like a bedroom versus a recreation room.

Decorator 3: These choices arise strictly from individual needs. If your living room color is most beautiful in summer, it's wasted if most of your summer is spent outdoors. And so the living room should be at its most beautiful in winter—dominated by a color that looks nice when the trees are bare. Variations in light also make a lot of difference. For example, I know a lady whose living room is mostly gray, and when the leaves are off the trees she hates the room in daytime, it's so dreary. But at night, she says, it looks pretty. Since you can't re-decorate a room twice a day, maybe someone who spends all day at home and goes out a lot at night—and doesn't entertain much—why, she needs different colors, including carpeting, than one who entertains evenings a good deal and whose family is out all day.

Moderator: What are daytime colors?

Decorator 2: In general, they're apt to be light. Moderators: Then a working husband and wife, who are out all day but spend their evenings in their living room, should want a darker, richer carpet.

Decorator 2: It's an individual thing. You may prefer a color that really glows—or one that says nothing... even a pastel that pales under the lights. For me, the pastel is out, but a red rug is replacing a brown one, and what a difference it's made! The red stimulates me so much, I stay up late there and work with so much more creativity. But in the morning I like waking to a happy color, so my bedroom is yellow—though other colors also give that effect. How late you stay up, how early you arise—it makes a big difference, too.

Decorator 3: The darker, richer tones are better daytime colors. In Mediterranean and other warm climates, most everyone moves toward more intense colors than in northern, rainier, grayer climates. It's because light registers color more intensely, and sunlight fades it out. Any color shows up better on a gray day than on a bright day because grayness boosts color sensitivity.

Moderator: And so in Florida you'd choose more gaudy, raspy colors.

Decorator 2: Well, in Florida or California, you'd have no trouble at all decorating with intense colors. I think that's where that trend is coming from.

Moderator: And in a more subdued climate, bright color wouldn't help?

Decorator 2: Well, in New England you might call bright colors "overkill."

Moderator: What should you do with a family room? Use the same logic and consider location before settling on colors?

Decorator 4: Use a lot of burnt colors because a family room almost always has a lot of country furniture—in woods like maple, pine, cherry—in colors originating outdoors. So use brown, yellow, orange or green.

Moderator: Will the color choice be based on how much time you spend in the room, or the time of day you use it most?

Decorator 3: They're major factors, of course. The consecutive hours you spend in a family room must be stacked up against how long you can tolerate its colors—even if you like 'em. The time of day the room's most used also matters—that is, what mood do you look for there at that time?

Moderator: Color to match the season is an unusual twist.

Decorator 1: The general climate means more than the seasonal changes.

Decorator 4: Yes, since climate is not as constant as the use to which the room is put. You just don't switch carpeting twice a year to match the climate.

Moderator: Are people generally more daring with color in family and recreation rooms than in their living rooms?

Decorator 1: Yes, and so you'll find more early American in family rooms than in living rooms. Early American just calls for brightness.

Moderator: People tend to spend less on family room furnishing than on living rooms.

Is that why living room decor is usually more conservative?

Decorator 4: That's part of it. The other is that guests are usually entertained in the living room, so people are apt to think of it as a place to sit more or less dressed up. But in a family room they want warmth, relaxation and informality.

Moderator: With family rooms increasing, shouldn't furniture manufacturers make suitable pieces upholstered in the kind of colors we've been talking about?

Decorator 1: They are coming around to brighter colors. The trend is clear.

Moderator: We've been talking about positives. Aren't there some negatives?

Decorator 3: There are no absolute positives or negatives. As in every judgment involving taste—it all depends. Take the bright greens. In decorating, they can be a loaded gun. But carefully handled —what dramatic results!

Decorator 4: There's also the mixing of patterns. The "accident rate" is awful.

Moderator: What about the controversial color mixtures?

Decorator 1: You must mean blue and green. By every rule of art, it was once wholly verboten. For the past few decades it's been very popular and nobody swoons over it anymore. The mixture has a success secret: Up close it may tend to vibrate some, but a little bit removed—even the distance from eye to floor—the eye mixes the colors with an agreeable effect.

Moderator: What's the status of gold these days? I mean the color, not the world money market.

Decorator 2: It's used a lot because most people still think of gold as a "neutral," but the more sophisticated are coming to realize that gold is really a color—though it does go with a great many others. And now that they're accepting it as a color by itself, they're willing to take the next step—move on to something a bit bolder.

DULL HOUSEWORK CAN HELP KEEP YOU SLIM, FIT, PRETTY

—When you reach up to dust a high shelf or wash the woodwork, stand on toes and stretch body upwards. This is good for ankles, legs, posture.

—Scrubbing floors with gusto helps firm up arms, shoulders, back, stomach, waistline.

—Washing dishes firms arms and upper back.

—When sweeping, pull your stomach in, hold your shoulders back. Swing broom with long, free movements so you can feel the pull at your waistline.

—Grab handle of broom at each end, stand with feet apart, raise broom high and stretch up. Then lower broom and repeat this over and over. Add a few stretches each day. When you can do it 15 times, you'll be in the winner's circle.

If you are an aspiring singer, vocalize while you are vacuuming under the bed, or leaning over in some other "awkward" position. Not easy, but wonderful exercise; builds those important diaphragm muscles. Then when you have to take a G over high C you will have trained for it.

So many "hidden virtues" in home improving!

Glass-Enclosed Patio Ensures

Year 'Round Fun

Why restrict your vacation to two weeks a year?

With proper house planning, the fun and relaxation of outdoor living — which personifies most vacations — can be enjoyed all year long.

The key to year-round outdoor living is a glass-enclosed patio. During the warm weather, it's a sun deck, an outdoor dining room, and the perfect place for a barbecue. During the winter, it keeps the family from being cooped up indoors, and lets them enjoy the beauties of the snow season from the comfort of the house.

To get the most in convenience and year-round pleasure from a patio, it must have a good location and proper windows and doors.

A southern exposure is best, because it affords plenty of sunlight but doesn't bring excessive heat. A western exposure is less desirable, because the afternoon sun can make the room uncomfortably hot in the summer. The patio can be protected from the wind by locating it on the lee side and letting the house act as a wind shield.

To make the patio a natural extension of the house, link it to an indoor room with a new sliding door. A stock ponderosa pine door with insulating glass in a weatherstripped wood sash is a practical choice. Tests show that the combination of insulating glass, weatherstripping and wood sash affords the best protection against heat loss in winter, heat gain in summer, drafts and condensation (moisture that can form on glass surfaces and sash during cold weather).

Similar care should be taken in choosing the right doors and windows for the patio enclosure.

The wide visibility essential to a patio can be obtained by stacking a series of awning windows, which open out, or hopper windows, which open in. They give the effect of glass walls, and since they open at a 90-degree angle, give maximum ventilation.
